Fight Against U. S. Nicaraguan Policy Opened In Senate

GRAHAM ASKS NO TRACE OF MEN STRANDED ON FLOATING ICE

WANTS AUTHORITY OF SENATE TO CARRY ON INVESTIGATIONS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A charge that the U. S. shipping board deliberately is promoting a monopoly of Pacific coast shipping was made before the senate commerce committee today by Benjamin S. Groscup, counsel for a group of Puget Sound business men.

MONOPOLY IN SHIPPING ON PACIFIC SEEN

The committee is conducting hearings on the Jones resolution, instructing the board not to carry out the sale of three government-owned freight lines on February 10.

Groscup said terms of the proposed sale of the American Oriental Mail line, the American-Australia-Orient line and the Oregon-Orient line are such that all three must be purchased by one company.

"A monopoly of Pacific coast shipping will be the inevitable result of this transaction," he said. "I don't know the board's motive, but I do know what will happen."

GRAHAM ASKS NO TRACE OF MEN STRANDED ON FLOATING ICE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Two resolutions, marking the opening of the senate fight against the administration's policy against the 10 fishermen who have been stranded on an ice field since yesterday afternoon.

Patrols of Coast Guardsmen during the night scanned the Canadian and American shores for signs from the lost men, but saw nothing but ice fields, devoid of life.

Grave Fears Expressed
Captain Forner left here at daybreak to hunt among the ice packs for the missing fishermen. Grave fears were expressed for the safety of the stranded men.

Captain Forner said he had cruised among the ice floes for six hours but could not get close to the main floe because of imminent danger to all aboard the boat.

Awaiting the return of the party was Lt. Edwin M. Ronne, of the Buffalo airport, who said he had a plane and pilot ready for instant flight, should he be requested.

It was Captain Forner's intention to have a plane cruise over the ice jammed lake in an effort to locate the men.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A threat of taking the Republican national convention away from Kansas City will be in reserve when the Kansas City committee meets here Thursday to discuss hotel accommodations and kindred convention questions.

The committee has told the arrangements committee that the western city will make good its promises to have sufficient accommodations, but the meeting Thursday results from a flood of complaints that these have not been forthcoming.

Republican authorities said today the convention would be taken to Cleveland if Kansas City people were agreeing to "come through."

Additional 1000 Rooms Promised Republicans
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 6.—An additional thousand rooms in Kansas City will be placed at the disposal of the convention.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Lt. Arthur Gavin, navy pilot, left the naval air station here at 6:30 a. m. today, in a giant two-motored Sikorsky plane on a three-stop flight to Havana, Cuba.

He expects to refuel at Moorhead City, N. C., Jacksonville, and Key West, Fla., reaching Havana about 6:30 p. m.

At Havana the plane will be turned over to the Pan American Airways company and will be used to chart passengers and airmail routes in Central America.

Accompanying Gavin were John A. Hamilton and M. Trippe, officials of Pan American Airways, and Mechanic Wood.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Dr. M. Gilman Goodrich, chief surgeon of the Los Angeles hospital and nationally prominent medical figure, succumbed to a heart attack here today.

His illness was complicated by a dropsical condition of the lungs. Dr. Goodrich collapsed last Tuesday, after completing two operations, when he was notified of the death of his assistant, Dr. Norman F. Dorn.

Hickman Said He Killed To Call World's Attention To Criminals

By DAN CAMPBELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
COURTROOM, LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—William Edward Hickman was harboring the delusion that the murder of little Marion Parker would benefit society.

State attorneys, although deriding the idea, as a feigned defense, admitted on the stand that the slayer told them he hoped to correct crime through the horror of his act.

It was the youth's purpose, he told attorneys, to call the lax attention of the American public to the "wholesale grip" that criminals have upon the country.

The opening of the third week of the trial found the Parker murder drama in its dullest session, as a parade of state mental experts passed through the witness box to brand "The Fox" sane.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—George W. Wickersham, president of the American Bar association, chosen to represent the senate in the habeas corpus hearing of Robert W. Stewart, oil magnate, tomorrow, will be ready to proceed at that time.

It was announced today that Wickersham, attorney general in the Taft cabinet, will not seek a delay to study the case, arising from Stewart's refusal to give all details wanted by the Teapot Dome investigators concerning the $3,000,000 Continental oil deal of 1921.

Senator Walsh, of the Teapot Dome committee, expressed gratification today at obtaining Wickersham, one of the nation's most prominent attorneys.

Conviction Of Miller Is Upheld

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The U. S. court of appeals today upheld the conviction of Col. Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian in the Harding administration, who was charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in returning German assets seized during the war.

The decision of the higher court was unanimous.

Colonel Miller went to trial last spring with Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general. Miller was found guilty, fined $50,000 and sentenced to 18 months in Atlanta prison. The jury before Judge John C. Knox disagreed on Daugherty and charges against him were nolle prossed.

Accusations against Miller developed from the return to Swiss corporations of $7,000,000 worth of assets in the American Metals company.

TREATY GIVEN SENATE FOR RATIFICATION

New Agreement Marks 150 Years Of Uninterrupted Peace Between Nations

FRIENDSHIP ADVANCED
Disputes Involving Monroe Doctrine, Home Affairs, Third Parties Excepted

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A century and a half of uninterrupted peace between France and the United States was commemorated today when French Ambassador Claudel and Under-Secretary of State Robert E. Olds signed a Franco-American treaty of arbitration at the state department.

President Coolidge sent the treaty to the senate today for ratification.

On Feb. 6, 1778, Benjamin Franklin, Silas Deane and Arthur Lee, on behalf of the 13 United States of North America signed a treaty of amity and commerce with France.

It was the first treaty entered into by the young republic of the new world.

From that moment France openly assisted the 13 states in their war against Great Britain. Money, of which the new republic was in desperate need, flowed in a continuous stream from the treasury of Louis XVI to assist Gen. George Washington and his men.

The treaty signed today advances the historical friendship to what is interpreted as a firmer footing in that it provides for arbitration in the event of a dispute between the two countries.

Monroe Doctrine Excepted
Excepted from arbitration are disputes involving the Monroe doctrine matters of domestic affairs and disputes involving third parties.

ery. She will lecture on some of the newest phases of home making, give valuable advice on home budget making, the choice and use of new labor saving devices, the interesting new theories on diet and health; she will demonstrate modern appliances and in every way turn the theater and herself into a headquarters for all kinds of home making information.

The doors open at 1:00. The school will start at 2 p. m. and the sessions will last until 4 p. m. Women who expect to attend the school are asked to give particular attention to the fact that the doors will not be opened until 1:00 p. m. Miss Campbell will speak daily. There will be cookery demonstrations and following each lecture a free distribution of the printed recipes of the dishes cooked that day as well as other good things. In an interview with the lecturer, to discuss her plans for next week, she expressed the hope that her audiences would not only be large but that they would represent every home in Santa Ana and surrounding territory. She wants every girl and woman to bring her housekeeping problems to the Register school. Domestic science students start during their first cookery lessons in local schools are urged to come to these classes with their questions and problems. Experienced housekeepers who are a little bit weary of the round of pork chops, fried potatoes and apple pie are invited to come for special help on menu planning. Housekeepers who must watch the market basket expenditures are promised some special on lowest cost buying. Hostesses who pride themselves on smart luncheons and attractive dinners will be given new pointers on how to plan festive parties, how to decorate the table and how to serve the guests. There will be discussions of the new styles in table linens, the new glassware and chinaware.

All questions on these subjects and others bothering the housekeeper will be answered in detail by Miss Campbell.

Her recipes are clear and explicit. Her demonstrations are simple and easily seen by everyone in the audience. She has had long experience as a housekeeper, as a teacher and as a lecturer before women's clubs and organizations. Thousands of women have heard her, have brought their housekeeping problems to her and have been helped by her advice. Not only does she speak with authority on the scientific side of dietetics and home economics but her long, practical experience has given her an especially good foundation for helping women with their every day problems of housekeeping.

Another theory which she has helped thousands of women to put into practical use is that the well family is not necessarily the one with the largest grocery bills. Simple foods, well chosen, properly cooked and nicely served constitute good cookery and healthful diets. With a little understanding of the relative values of every day foods, helpful advice as to the interesting and novel ways to combine them, and a few excellent recipes with which to cook them, any woman may face and accomplish the job of feeding her family well. But hear Miss Campbell on this subject next week in her four days of cooking lessons. Admission is free, and everybody is invited.

moved slowly and little interest in the proceedings was evidenced in the jury box or among the spectators.

Vera Gordon, famous for her portrayal of mother roles, represented the movie colony today, while the judiciary of the state was in evidence in the persons of Judge Murray, of Madera county, and Judge Rector, of Merced.

As the noon session recess was taken, Dr. Frank Mikelis was on the stand and two more state alienists remained to be called.

The defense hammered bitterly at the testimony of state alienists today and scored repeatedly against the experts testifying that William Edward Hickman is sane.

Attack Parkin Statements
In an attack upon the statements of Dr. Victor Parkin, former member of the lunacy commission of Los Angeles county, the defense introduced records of cases that the witness had committed to the Patton asylum.

After maneuvering Dr. Parkin into a position where he admitted that Hickman might be a "constitutional psychopathic inferiority" type, Defense Attorney Richard Cantillon then began questioning Dr. Parkin on his own records.

Dr. Parkin previously had stated that the lunacy commission did not commit a "constitutional psychopathic inferiority" to an asylum, but his records indicated that a case of that kind had been sent to Patton asylum.

Insane Persons Clever
Dr. Parkin admitted that insane persons often are extremely cunning in making their escape from the scene of violent acts.

The defense also brought out through cross examination of Dr. Parkin that patients suffering from dementia praecox frequently have been able to outwit their attendants.

Dr. Parkin admitted, under bitter cross-examination, that if Hickman's statements to him were false that his conclusions regarding Hickman might be false.

Hickman is suffering from autographia and not dermatographia as had been established through a test in the courtroom Saturday. Dr. Paul Bowers, state alienist, explained today.

While dermatographia is a symptom of dementia praecox, autographia is simply a nervous condition that may be found in normal persons, Dr. Bowers testified as the state attempted to break down the effect of the test made on the slayer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—A resolution suggesting that the president reopen negotiations for U. S. membership in the Permanent Court of International Justice was introduced today by Senator Gillette, Republican, Massachusetts, and laid on the table for future consideration.

Plan Of Organization Chief Subject Of Parley

HAVANA, Feb. 6.—The plan of organization for the Pan-American union was the chief subject before the sixth Pan-American conference today.

The Pan-American union committee may conclude adoption of the articles to be incorporated in the convention, but the controversial terms of the preamble remain to be determined.

The preamble is under consideration by a special sub-committee, while the full committee devotes itself to the body of the convention. Hernandez Castaya, chairman of the sub-committee, has been preparing a special report.

The controversial aspects of the preamble arise from the differences of opinion as to the proper scope of the union's functions. Mexico has made an energetic campaign against political powers for the union. Cuba favored the establishment of a section of conciliation, but it is not certain whether this will be pressed in the face of strong opposition.

An even more difficult problem arises from the fact that Argentina has made proposals that the preamble should incorporate economic declarations, including references to tariff policy.

The U. S. view, as indicated thus far, is that the preamble should comprise general declarations of a comprehensive character.

SENATE READY TO PRESS FIGHT ON OIL OFFICER for Stewart.

The senate Teapot Dome committee's record of Stewart's refusal to answer its questions was received by U. S. Attorney Peyton Gordon today. Gordon said it would be submitted to the grand jury this week.

The Teapot Dome committee proceeded today with its efforts to trace the millions in the Continental deal. President H. L. Phillips, testified that George S. Taber Jr., whom subpoena servers had been unable to locate, is in Pittsburgh today.

Listed As Missing
Taber, who signed one of the mysterious contracts in the big oil deal of 1921, had been listed as the fourth missing witness of the group wanted by the committee or the courts to explain the 1921 transaction.

Chairman Nye announced service had been made on Taber and that he would be present tomorrow.

Phillips followed Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Refining company, who said he knew nothing of the 1921 deal or the $3,000,000 in bonds, which oil men secreted for some undetermined purpose, and the mysterious Continental Trading company, of Canada.

Phillips described the Chicago meetings, where the board of Stewart's and Harry F. Sinclair's oil corporations ratified the usual contracts.

"Stewart, Sinclair Present"
"Both Stewart and Sinclair were present," said Phillips. "Some one made some sort of explanation of the contracts—I don't remember who. The contracts then were approved."

Phillips said he did not recall seeing one of the contracts the day it was ratified by his company board. This was the contract Stewart and Sinclair guaranteed for the Continental to buy oil 25 cents a barrel cheaper than they were to buy it from the Continental.

Phillips also told how the half-expired Continental contract, apparently worth $6,000,000, had been repurchased for $400,000 by the Sinclair and Stewart companies. He said he met H. S. Oster, nominal head of the Continental, now missing, in New York at the instance of a Mr. Crowley of the Sinclair Consolidated.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Fire that damaged the home of Senator Hiram Johnson, in Riverdale, Md., near here, Friday night, was caused by a short-circuit in an automobile parked in the carriage house garage, police determined today. Arson had been suspected.

PAYMENT FOR DAM SITE IS DISCUSSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Arizona, Nevada and California representatives met at the interior department today to discuss development of the Boulder dam project and to draft a tentative plan for payment of the states whose land will be used as the dam site. Nevada and Arizona are the states to be compensated from the proceeds of sale of power to be generated by the government dam, California, as the largest potential consumer of the power, favors some form of payment to Nevada and Arizona.

It was expected by those at today's preliminary conference that a plan would be evolved whereby these two states may receive payment on a percentage basis.

DIVORCE GRANTED
NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Mrs. Doris M. Kresge, estranged wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, was granted a divorce today after 15 minutes' deliberation by the supreme court. Kresge did not contest the action.

You Want What We Want

It is important for you, as well as for us, to understand each other on this point. In a way, we're both trying to do the same thing.

You want all you can get for your money in clothes; we want to give all we can for it. If we're both in earnest about it, we shall get together, sooner or later.

The new Spring Hart Schaffner and Marx Suits is one way of giving you more for your money; there are plenty of other ways here, too.

Local Briefs

The City Employees club will meet at the city council chambers tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Clyde Jensen, city engineer, is scheduled for an address on city organization. E. B. Collier, city manager, also is expected to address the employees.

W. I. Ridgeway, plant superintendent for Raitt's Sanitary dairy left Saturday for Davis, Calif., to take the short course in dairying at the State Farm school.

G. R. Alford, 1005 Wilson Drive, suffered a lacerated hand at 3:15 a. m. today when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a light standard at Fifteenth and North Main streets, tenth. He went to the Santa Ana Valley hospital for medical treatment and then to his home.

The annual meeting of the Santa Ana Building and Loan association will be held at the association's office Thursday at 7:30 a. m.

The Community of Olive is giving a complimentary dinner Wednesday evening to friends of Dr. J. D. Thomas in commemoration of his 16th birthday and as a tribute of recognition of his efforts in behalf of Olive and other public work. The dinner, which will be at Olive hall at 7:30 o'clock, will be followed by a dance.

The rainfall for the season here today stood at 11.16 inches, following the hard rains of Saturday, when 1.61 inches of moisture was precipitated for the 24 hour period ended at 7 a. m. Sunday. The total for the season was 2.83 inches. The recorded amount at this date last year was 5.43 inches.

A meeting of the Santa Ana American Legion's executive committee has been called for 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Legion home on Birch street. All members of the post also are urged to be present as business matters of importance are to be transacted, according to Charles Van Wyk, commander.

J. P. Williams, resident manager of the George A. Brown company, left Santa Ana yesterday for Keytesville, Mo., to attend the funeral of his father who died there Saturday.

R. H. Towner, former Santa Ana and now head of the Town and Rating bureau, which determines national surety bond rates, arrived here today to attend the funeral of his brother, Fred Towner.

MOTOR COPS TEST BRAKES ON AUTOS

Motorists were being halted in different parts of the city today for tests of the efficiency of brakes on their cars, the result of a campaign being conducted under the auspices of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with Captain Henry McKeen and his squad of state motorcycle officers. The chamber of commerce committee in charge of the drive against poor brakes is composed of Elmer Peck, Harry Harlow, Leonard Rowell, W. H. Penn and H. M. Kinslow. As chairman of the committee, Kinslow pointed out today that many automobile owners are careless in the matter of keeping their brakes in condition, and said the campaign has been developed to direct attention of motorists to this fact.

Safety is involved in good brakes and we hope to promote safety in Santa Ana by testing brake efficiency of cars that come within the territory covered by the officers and official testers, Kinslow said.

SAN DIEGOAN FINED ON DRIVING CHARGE

The charge against him changed to reckless driving and possession of intoxicating liquor from driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Wilfred M. Clark, San Diego, has been fined $450 in Judge John Landell's court at Santa Ana.

Clark, while driving to San Diego last fall from Los Angeles, drove his machine into a car occupied by two youths, wrecking it. He gave the boys a ride and later turned his own machine over near Capistrano beach, injuring one of the youths.

He was arrested and tried in superior court here on a charge of driving while intoxicated but the jury failed to agree and a new trial granted with a change in the complaint.

Police News

C. J. Siero, 714 East Fourth street, reported to police Saturday the theft of a tool chest from his place several days ago. The chest contained a wood saw, back saw, hammer, screw driver, a square, drill and other carpenter tools.

Three men were arrested over the week end by Santa Ana police on drunk charges. They were: Bill Kearns, 1003 East Pine street; Bud King, Irvine, and George Miller, 810 East street.

Henry Jones, charged with vagrancy, was arrested Saturday night by Officer Murray. He was lodged in the county jail.

ANNEXATION

Mr. Thomas Doubter Remains Afloat Some Facts and Figures and Decides Merging of Cities Can Bring Benefits to the Average Resident.

I met Mr. Thomas Doubter on the street in Santa Ana today and we drifted into a discussion of the value to the average residents of Santa Ana of union with Costa Mesa, Newport Beach and other territory. He said, "I don't like this business."

I said, "Do you believe that the Newport Harbor will be improved?" and he answered, "Certainly, it is bound to be."

"And do you think that its improvement will add to the wealth and well-being of the coast towns?"

"Yes, it must in the long run."

"Will Santa Ana share in this new wealth?"

"Of course, it will, but it can do that without any cost to Santa Ana."

"Well, if your neighbor had earned some good things for himself by much labor, would you be willing to take a part of them from him for yourself if you had not worked for them?"

"No, I would not rob my neighbor, but cities have no moral responsibility, and the city would gain without violating any law."

"What is the city of Santa Ana, then?"

"Why, as to that, I suppose it is made up of the citizens who live here."

Moral Law

"Well, then, you think a collection of citizens may violate a moral law when each one may not?"

"No, I suppose that the group are bound by the same law as the individual."

"Then, if you would not rob your neighbor, would you have this group of fellow citizens rob him?"

"No, that would be quite as bad as if I should rob him."

"If you found a man trying hard to do some worthy thing and he asked you to help him and he promised to reward you, would you help him?"

"Most assuredly I would, if it did not cost me too much in labor or money."

"Well, if this effort would lower your taxes and increase the value of your property and that of all your neighbors, would you not be willing to exert yourself a good deal to help him?"

"I most certainly would," said Mr. Doubter.

"And would you not urge your neighbors to do likewise?"

"Yes, that too I would do."

"And do you believe that many working together can do more than each working by himself?"

"Yes, I believe that also."

"And do you believe that improvement of the harbor and a great industrial district there is a worthy thing and would increase the wealth of Santa Ana as well as the coast towns?"

"Yes, I think that would follow."

"But if the coast towns needed the help of your city to improve this harbor and establish these industries, would you withhold your help?"

"Not I think then we should help them, because we would be helping ourselves."

Not a Tax Payer

"Do you own any land in Orange county, Mr. Doubter?"

"I do not."

"Have you any children?"

"No, I have none."

"Are you employed in this county?"

"No, I am not employed."

"Do you pay any taxes to the city or county?"

"No, I have no property on which I pay taxes."

"How, then do you live?"

"I am supported by my children."

"Are they, then, employed in the county?"

"Yes, they are employed here."

"Do they always find work to do?"

"No, not always. There are not enough positions at all times for all who would work."

"Is it not hard for you and your children when they have no work to do?"

"Assuredly."

Give Employment

"Do you not think that more shops and factories would make more work and so keep your children more often employed?"

Mr. Doubter, to have many cities with many governments or the many to unite with one government?

"No doubt, if the cities were joined together, one city and one government would be preferable."

"Why do you think this, Mr. Doubter?"

"We would have fewer officers to pay, fewer buildings to maintain and a larger population to help pay for it all."

"Are the cities too far apart to prevent these things taking place?"

"No, I can't say they are now, because of good roads and easy and quick means of communication."

"Do you not think then, Mr. Doubter, that the joining of these cities would be a good thing for you and others?"

"I see that I must have been mistaken, but some one told me that would be bad. I thank you for this conversation, and I will help bring these good things to Santa Ana."

COUNCIL PLANS TO DISCUSS SEWERAGE

The city council went into an informal conference at 2 o'clock this afternoon with R. P. Goudy, southern division engineer for the state board of health, for discussion of the outfall sewer and general sanitary conditions in Santa Ana as they may pertain to the local system.

The council contemplates abandonment of the Olive street reservoir and the building of another reservoir at First and Flower streets, and plans for these improvements and changes will be discussed with the expert.

Tonight the council, in regular session will open bids for the installation of ornamental lights on Bush, Spurgeon and French streets, from First to Sixth, and will adopt resolutions providing for the installation of a system in the southern part of the city, south of Edinger street and west of Main. The proposal is to place ornamental lights on St. Gertrude's place, from Main to Woodland; Spurgeon, Broadway, Birch and Ross, from St. Gertrude's place to a point 300 feet north of that street, and Van Ness street, St. Gertrude to Edinger. The cost is estimated by City Engineer Clyde Jenken at $130 a front foot.

A hearing is also scheduled on the proposal to establish a 15-foot set-back line on each side of North Broadway, from Eighth to Santa Clara. This is not a street widening proposition, and is designed to prevent builders of residences and apartment houses locating buildings against the sidewalk.

LEG BRUISED WHEN TWO AUTOS CRASH

William Clark, 412 South Gardner street, was slightly injured Saturday afternoon, when the automobile in which he was riding, collided with a machine driven by C. B. Waskley, 921 West First street, at the intersection of Third and Ross streets.

Clark suffered a bruised leg. He was taken to his home. Weekly made a report of the accident at the police station.

TOM IRELAND

Editor Register:—May I have space for a few lines of tribute to an humble and inconspicuous but thoroughly good citizen of fine character who has just passed away—Tom Ireland.

For quite a good many years Tom has worked in the barber shop of Santa Ana, mostly if not entirely in the Rosemore shop and in Joe Steels' shop near the post office. Having my work done in these shops, I have come in almost daily contact with him, and I have never heard him utter an unkind word of any human being. Even for many whom the world condemned Tom had a kind word of forgiveness or appreciation. He sought for the good in them. He seemed to be consecrated in thought and deed to the scriptural injunction, "Judge not lest ye be judged."

Charitable in spirit, he was naturally charitable in deed to the extent of his ability. And he was public spirited and deeply imbued with civic pride and loyalty.

He loved his little home and worked hard to make it comfortable and attractive. He loved his family and tried to make them happy. He loved his country and his fellowmen and sought to serve them. What higher tribute could be paid to any man? Whether his station be humble or exalted, conspicuous or obscure, the crucial and final test of character is the heart test.

WOMEN'S CIVIC LEAGUE OF NEWPORT BEACH REFUSES TO JOIN FORCES WITH LEE PFAU

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 6.—The fight here over the city council is on in earnest and tricks are beginning to be played and various kinds of politics that they don't play in Sunday school, are being pulled. The opposition to the present trustees has been increasing very apparently for weeks culminating in the petition for the recall. It has been generally predicted that there will be a complete change in the city government, in April.

Lee Pfauf, of this place, however, who has been against the administration, wants to be a candidate for trustee himself. He learned that a group of people who were opposing the administration had not put him on the ticket. He learned of the names of the people who he thought were being considered, and wrote a letter to the members of the Civic league attacking these men from the standpoint of honesty, or their qualifications, as he termed it, because of their relationship to the bank and to other people. He named Paul Ellsworth as one of these possible candidates and said he should not be elected because he is a director of the Bank of Balboa, and that Frank Smith is president of the chamber of commerce and should not be elected because he permitted the chamber to accept city funds unlawfully. He said that the other three men, whose names he believed were on the ticket, naming Herman Hillmer, Lloyd Claire, and Mark Johnson, should not be elected because they were friendly, he says, to Lee Wallace, J. P. Greeley, Joe Beck, and several other people.

Written To League

This letter, while written to the members of the Civic league, was distributed generally around town very apparently for the purpose of hurting the opposition to the city government. In fact, it is declared that Pfauf has joined with the city government fellows and that this letter was in part prepared by some of them for the purpose of hurting the opposition and that the names of some of these people were put in as a blind to make the folks believe that the administration forces had nothing to do with it. Support is given to this idea by the prompt publication of the substance of Pfauf's letter by a local paper, which has been with the administration. Others do not believe this, thinking that the reason for the letter was that Pfauf wanted to become a trustee and wrote it to try to force his name among the list indicated, and that if they didn't, the opposition could expect his attacks.

To Be Candidate

Pfauf declares that he is going to announce himself as a candidate and is going to have a platform that will settle the tideland question until the trumpets shall sound on the day of judgment.

In response to Pfauf's letter, the Women's Civic league made response on Saturday night, in part reading as follows:

"Our general letter addressed to the Women's Civic League of Newport Beach, has been received; and although your act in sending copies of this letter promiscuously over the city violates any need on our part for answering the same, we are taking the opportunity for stating our position as far as the government of our city is concerned."

"Before doing so however, we wish to say that the old demand anyone has a right to make of the Women's Civic league, is that it lives up to the ideal for which it was organized and by which it has been actuated. We have always done our own thinking and shall continue to do so. This thinking so far has brought us unerringly to the highest sense of right possible in given situations, and in every instance has operated for the highest good to the community. We feel justified, therefore, in maintaining this policy."

"To whatever conclusion this thinking may lead us in the present situation of city politics, it will never actuate us towards a personal fight or personal attacks of any kind. From the point of principle, the Women's Civic league may be opposed to a condition, a situation, a system or a lack of standards, but it does not approve of calling folks crooks, or thieves, or liars, nor even thinking of them as such."

"We cannot, therefore, join you in your personal attacks. We do not approve of your methods, but rather do we feel that such methods merely destroy without building up."

Several boxes of candy, $10 in cash, 145 slot machine chips worth five cents each and several boxes of cigars and cigarettes were stolen by a thief who burglarized the restaurant of Walt Troxel, 407 1-2 North Birch street, some time yesterday when the restaurant was closed, according to a report made to the police.

The slot machine was carried to the kitchen of the restaurant where it was broken open and the chips removed.

LEON DE ARYAN SUGGESTED FOR JULIUS DEBATE

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif., Feb. 4.—In a letter addressed to the president of the Newport Woman's Civic League Prof. Robert A. Millikan, the noted Pasadena scientist and discoverer of the cosmic ray, suggests C. Leon de Aryan of Laguna Beach to debate in his place the question whether or not Eternal Intelligence produces and directs the universe, with E. Haldeman-Julius who had extended that challenge to the scientist in a wire addressed to Mrs. Brooks, president of the league.

Originally E. Haldeman-Julius had challenged some prominent divines to that debate, but when no official spokesman of the church replied the women of Newport Beach urged the Kansas publisher to debate the question with a layman. Haldeman-Julius who had declared himself to be an agnostic free thinker proposed to debate Prof. Millikan as an alternative. When informed by Mrs. Brooks of that challenge, the scientist wrote in reply: "No time for this. Why not debate de Aryan."

C. Leon de Aryan, a Laguna Beach engineer had offered previously to debate that question with the agnostic, when the latter stated, "this country is in the throats of an intellectual revolution, with ideas and not men as targets." He intended to debate the question on its own inherent merits, without relationship to "orthodoxy" or scriptural authority. Having studied every important religious and philosophical system for over 30 years, he was considered the logical choice for the debate by all who are well acquainted with him.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS READY TO PRESENT FIRST PLAY OF SEASON, "LOVE IN A MIST"

In New York two things will call forth vast quantities of publicity, a sensational murder and a successful play. Around either one a monstrosity of print swarms and swirls as discussion wanders more and more copious. Every person directly or indirectly connected with the event comes in for his or her share of the cyclone of language, every phase of each person's character is laid open as with a surgeon's knife and given a microscopic examination to discover reasons and motives.

Mrs. Marion Helm Williams, director of the Santa Ana Community Players, thus analyzed the situation today when she recalled the discussion which raged around "Love in a Mist," one of last year's most successful dramatic offerings in New York and the play to be shown at the Temple theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday by the local players.

"All the critics agreed that it achieved a phenomenal popularity, the only cause for disagreement among the arbiters of dramatic opinion being just why it rolled up such enormous box office receipts. One declared it because of its love interest. 'Love is the one thing that always makes for popularity with the play-going public,' said he. 'Give them even half a plot and wrap it about with a cloak of sentiment and it goes.' 'Another critic was equally sure its success could be ascribed to its humorous situations. 'Amelia Rives has written a play here that will appeal to any audience anywhere,' he wrote. 'It's love interest, of course, is strong, but it is the delightful vein of humor that runs through it, sparkling and clear as a mountain stream that draws its audiences. Many of them come again and again because the situations are so spontaneous they can laugh again and again and forget the cares they left outside the theater. Hardened old first-nighter that I am, I admit, I'll admit, in an outright show me why I should laugh' she'll have to confess I laughed continuously through 'Love in a Mist.' Furthermore I came back for a second helping the following evening, something I haven't done before in years."

"A third critic declared that the showing of costumes had no small part in the play's success. 'Miss Madge Kennedy, who took the part of Diana Wynne, the leading feminine character, wears her clothes with rare grace and her women auditors watched with delight her fashion parade from evening dress, traveling garb, afternoon dress, sport frocks and back again through the series. I believe the humorous situations was the principal cause for the play's success but I'm equally sure that clothes contributed a part,' not only Diana Wynne's but also those of Anna Moore Wynne and Sidney Rose the other women characters."

In speaking of the opening of their 1928 season, Art E. Collins, president of the Santa Ana Community Players, said today:

"We feel that we were fortunate to secure the Temple theater for our series of plays. It has ample seating capacity and is centrally located. We believe we are going to have a good season. The first offering, 'Love in a Mist,' will, I am sure, please all who see it and make them ask for more. The play and the players who will present it were chosen only after a great deal of study and we're putting our best foot forward at the start naturally."

"The cast includes Mona Summers Smith, Herschel Clayton, Julia Ann Hyde, Ellmore Thatcher, Emil Fouci, Mabel C. Larrick, and Rex Roover. Mrs. Smith, Mr. Clayton and Mrs. Hyde are old favorites with us and with Santa Ana audiences. The others are newer but are doing excellent work at rehearsals and we are sure that 'Love in a Mist' is going to be one of our greatest successes."

Too Many Babies For Photographer

SEAL BEACH, Feb. 4.—Taking a picture of babies of the cradle roll department of the Community Methodist church proved a formidable undertaking for the photographer. With a camera for outdoor photography and a mental conception of a group of a dozen babies to be snapped, the photographer was surprised to see babies coming in every direction. Babies in arms and tiny toddlers, peppy little two and three-year-olds, one pair of twins and every one dressed up to look their loveliest was a sight worth seeing but there seemed no limit to the number. Thirty, 40, 50, and they kept coming. The artist, unable to cope with the situation, begged a thousand pardons and promised to come again better equipped to take pictures singly and on masses.

FRENCH POLICE ARREST 4000 IN BIG CAMPAIGN

BY JOHN O'BRIEN

United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS Feb. 4.—In the cleaning up campaign started by Prefect of Police Chiappe when the American Legion convention was about to open in Paris, nearly 4000 persons have been arrested and of these about 1500 were either sent to jail or expelled from the country.

Minister of the Interior Albert Sarraut and the head of the police department, decided on the move when the Communists and looters joined hands in August to stage a semi-revolution as protest against the condemnation of the Massachusetts anarchists Sacco and Vanzetti. It has been going on ever since and the city of Paris feels better for it.

Police arrive before midnight at places which least expect a visit and arrest every one in sight. Those who have "identity papers" are not further troubled. All the others spend the night, or at least several hours, in the station house. The United Press correspondent was sauntering along the Avenue de l'Opera the other night with a friend from Dayton, Ohio, when a squad of cyclist police surrounded them and intimated that the commissary would like to have a little talk with them.

The man in charge of the squad said that the real object of the operation was to learn exactly who the man from Ohio was. And it took two hours to clear up the situation which would not have amounted to anything if the visitor had taken the precaution to get an "identity card" within two months of his arrival in France.

In the first two weeks of the clean-up, 1147 men and women were taken to the police stations. Of these 723 were criminals known to the police. In November, 1927, foreigners were picked up in circumstances similar to that of the Dayton man and only 101 were immediately released on showing proof of their identity. There were 222 without legal papers and these are all subject to expulsion.

The others included nine deserters from the army and half a dozen escaped convicts.

Sometimes the police raids are perilous in the extreme. This is especially the case when a raid is made on one of the thousand or more lodging houses in the "Apache" districts. Here the 20 policemen who make up the raiding party under the orders of an inspector literally take their lives in their hands when they batter down a door. If the man behind the door who has refused to open is an escaped convict who does not want to go back to a penal colony, he usually has a revolver in his hand and opens fire at once.

But more often than not the raids are amusing. The inspectors are never taken in by the Levantine and Balkan white slavers who declare they are highly respectable dealers in precious stones. They smile when men and women have been picked up a dozen times repeat with a solemn air that they just happened to be in the opium or cocaine joint "by accident."

Dance halls, all night bars, suspicious cabarets—and places where the clientele is cosmopolitan are subject to frequent visits. The police authorities at the end of December reported that the number of arrests was steadily diminishing.

Report Of Orange County Grand Jury

law days, the grand jury to the court, a duty of the grand jury to the various departments of the county, making a thorough investigation and report to the court of their findings. Many of the grand juries in the past have been perfunctory and their duty to the court and to the people of the county, but this is not true of the grand jury just dissolved.

Members took their obligations seriously and made a thorough investigation and an extensive report. They are to be commended for their labor. In cases they unreservedly commended officers and in certain instances they adversely criticized examination and report in the county to be made before the people of the county, but we expected that this is to be done in cases where failures noted, for in a sense, the grand jury in its operation amounts to a board of directors over the various departments of the county. We are taking copious parts of report where criticisms have been rendered and recommendations made and will publish it for the value it will be to the citizens of the county. The report deals with the county and should be of information purposes.

Hon. H. G. Ames, of the Superior Court of Orange County, California, said the members of this body are fully aware of the opinion widely held by the taxpayers of Orange county that the grand jury is not being proportionate to the work thereof, or in keeping with the faithful and earnest efforts made by the county to improve its government. The grand jury is not being proportionate to the work thereof, or in keeping with the faithful and earnest efforts made by the county to improve its government. The grand jury is not being proportionate to the work thereof, or in keeping with the faithful and earnest efforts made by the county to improve its government.

The body gave considerable thought to grand jury auditing, as to the requirement of the relative to grand juries, and practical benefits to be obtained from the several types of examinations, possible, and for an audit, supervised by a certified public accountant, on legal advice, no audit was of the books of municipal or of municipal public utility. The auditors were instructed to make a sufficient examination of county income and disbursements to satisfy us that no major items of county funds exist, auditors found no evidence of element of any nature. In the examination of county income, we bore in mind the advisability of ascertaining only that the departments in the treasury all collected by them, but also departments are collecting revenue that they are morally charged with collecting.

Water Conservation
We recommend the board of supervisors for the steps taken under the Orange County Flood Control District bill in engaging the services of a competent and experienced engineer, who is now engaged in working out the preliminary of the program of water conservation so vitally important to the county; and we earnestly urge the board to maintain a constant and intimate touch with all matters pertaining thereto, to the end that no avoidable delay be permitted to occur, but that every possible energy be continuously expended toward the consummation of this tremendously important enterprise for the control and conservation of the flood waters of the Santa Ana river and the streams of Orange county.

Cost of County Government
This grand jury, responsive to what seems to us to be a very general concern over the constantly increasing tax burden, devoted considerable attention to this subject, and we fully appreciate we are only reiterating a well-known fact when we state that in the main the taxes are only what the voting citizen permits and authorizes them to be. It is perhaps pertinent in this connection to challenge attention to the fact that of the eight and one-quarter million dollars of income to Orange county from all sources during the past year, approximately five million dollars were expended for education purposes, and that the board of supervisors controlled this vast total, roughly only two and one-quarter million dollars, which we think needs to be kept in mind in order to arrive at a judgment fair to the supervisors. However, the supervisors, the city councils and the school trustees are clothed with the power and responsibility of making the tax levies in the county, the municipalities and the school districts, respectively, and these boards are charged with the disbursements in their respective subdivisions. While we appreciate the fact that expenses and costs are necessarily greater at this time, by reason of the increase in population and rising standards of living, we feel it our duty to impress upon the voters of this county that it is their obligation to use the greatest care in selecting as members of these boards only citizens of the highest intelligence and integrity, as well as business ability, and that such citizens when selected should use the greatest prudence and care to see that the public monies are wisely expended.

Board of Supervisors
Our investigation of the board of supervisors disclosed the following conditions, viz:
"That disbursements of public funds are made on the approval of the head of the department in which the claim originates, and upon the approval in writing of one member of the board, without further audit and without reading before the board; that no auditing committee of the board examines or approves claims and demands on the ordinary claim is paid without the investigation or direct knowledge of any members of the board; that the supervisor in whose department the demand originates, and of the chairman;
"That many different makes of automobiles, are purchased for county use admittedly without system or standardization;
"That different rates of mileage are paid to various county officers and employees who are maintaining and using their own automobiles in the county service;
"That lump sums in varying amounts per month are paid other employees for private automobiles similarly used in the county service;
"That the supervisors ordinarily meet one day per week for the approval of claims and demands;
"That a highly individualistic program prevails, that while each supervisor appears to us to have a commendable familiarity with the affairs of his own district or department, there does not appear to us to exist that intimate knowledge of the county affairs as a whole, by each supervisor, which seems to us to be desirable and necessary for the county welfare;
"That there is not maintained the close and intimate contact with, and supervision of, heads of departments which seems to us necessary if the best and most economical results are to be obtained;
"That the board is gradually eliminating road bosses or foremen, and placing responsibility for road work with the county road department, which policy we commend;
"That in some instances unduly long vacations have been permitted on full pay, specific reference being made in this connection to the vacation of the county health officer from September 1 to December 10, who resigned from the county service almost immediately upon his return.
"We recommend on the part of the supervisors an intensive study, continuing throughout the year, of the proposed budgets for the various departments of the county, and a constant touch with the heads of all departments, and an intimate familiarity with the internal workings of the county organization, as the most promising and effective means of preventing waste and extravagance and confining expenditures to a sane and business-like basis.
"We are of the opinion that the sums disbursed for Orange county are too important to be paid out on the actual knowledge and approval of only a minority of the board, and recommend in future that the claims and demands be examined and audited prior to the regular sessions of the board by a committee of three members, one of whom, that all claims and demands be read—read hastily and superficially, but thoroughly and deliberately—in the regular sessions of the board. We believe it is the duty of each supervisor to have knowledge through use or both of the methods suggested, or some other effective means, of all disbursements authorized, and that each supervisor should devote sufficient of his time to insure to the county a business-like administration. We approve the committee or departmental system, but do not consider that a supervisor has discharged his full obligation as such to the county by a general act of detailing to another individual member of the board the exclusive responsibility for such important expenditures as Orange county now necessarily makes.

"We earnestly recommend the standardization of automobile purchases, and that purchases be confined hereafter to not exceed four makes of cars; that the entire mileage question be thoroughly revised and standardized, with serious consideration given to the question of whether a more satisfactory and equitable system of transportation may not be established through payment of a stipulated sum per month as compensation for all private automobiles used in the county service, the amount thereof to be based on a careful and thorough study of the experiences of our own and adjoining counties. We are of the opinion that but one rate of basis of compensation for privately-owned automobiles used in the county service should prevail; that such a rate should not exceed seven cents per mile, and that if any county officer or employee maintains for his own comfort and satisfaction an automobile which involves an operative and maintenance expense in excess of the amount so determined to be generally paid, he should individually bear such excessive cost. We recommend that the accuracy of speedometers tested on automobiles on which county mileage is paid, and that no high-priced automobile be bought for county use in the future, it being our judgment that unnecessary sums have been invested in some automobiles acquired for county service.

"In the matter of telephone service, we are convinced that with proper supervision the $535.78 paid by the county for such service last year could and should be materially reduced. From investigations made, we are of the opinion that unnecessary use of the telephone has been made by county officers, and employees where business could have been transacted by letter as good or better advantage, and that some abuses have occurred through the use of the telephone for private purposes with the charge being paid by the county. We recommend that the matter of telephone service be given consideration with the view of establishing better and more stringent regulations concerning it.

"We are of the opinion that prudence needs to be exercised in giving credit to petitions of our citizens asking the establishment of new improvement districts, new departments of public service, or the extension of departments already existing. While we would not oppose the board of supervisors unresponsive to petitions for progressive enterprises incident to development of a growing county, we are of the view that some petitions for allegedly progressive action on the part of the board which would involve more taxes are not exactly what they seem, and are not, in fact, a true reflection of the honest sentiment of the taxpayers, but represent instead in some instances the high pressure result of some specially interested individual or concern not primarily animated by a consideration for the public welfare; and we suggest that it may be well, through the holding of public meetings, or other ways deemed feasible, that the actual and deliberate judgment of such petitioners be developed after it is certain that they have an accurate understanding of what the proposed new improvement, enterprise or department means to them and others, in taxes. The board should have the co-operation of taxpayers generally in such efforts."

"The county auditor, county clerk and county tax collector were all commended for their work and no criticisms were offered. The county assessor and county recorder were also commended for their work, no criticisms being offered.—Editor.

County Treasurer
The accounts of the county treasurer were, with the aid of an auditor, examined and verified and no discrepancies were discovered. All sums due from banks were verified from direct communication with the depository banks, and the cash in the office counted. "We have recommended some changes in the administration policies of this office which have been established through the precedents and habits of bygone years, in the matter of carrying a materially reduced cash balance in the office, in the keeping of more complete records in some respects than has heretofore been done, and in the policy of apportioning funds in the various depository banks, and have received the treasurer's co-operation and assurance that the recommended changes will be made. These changes will, when completely effected, result in a material saving of expense pertaining to the office, and a substantial increase of income to the county.

County Purchasing Agent
Our investigation of the activities of the county purchasing agent sustains a conclusion that the duties of his office are capably intelligently and honestly administered. The evidence adduced satisfied us that in the great majority of instances in the purchase of supplies he exercised a free and untrammelled discretion. It seems to us certain, however, that in the purchase of some automobiles, and some other equipment representing important county expenditures, the purchasing agent has not been the determining factor in the transaction.

"The value of the purchasing agent's service to the county, next to his capability and integrity, consists in his having a free hand in the discharge of his duties. We feel grave concern over evidence of any interference with the utmost liberty of action on his part, and in what it may lead to, and earnestly urge the board of supervisors to see that full and unrestricted discretion be accorded him in every way in effecting all county purchases, and that every purchase made passes through his department.

County Surveyor
The affairs of this office were found to be handled efficiently, and we are of the opinion that, under the existing conditions, the part-time service arrangement which exists in this office is an economical one for the county; but we cannot convince ourselves that it is either wise or good business practice for any county surveyor to conduct a private business from the same office, and at the same time, he is acting in the capacity of a public official.

"In view of the public attention recently centered on the sheriff's office, a very thorough examination, in company with an auditor, was made of the administration of the affairs of this office and of the county jail.

"It was confirmed that all fees, bail and other monies collected, have been properly accounted for. We have recommended certain changes in the accounting system, and the sheriff has given assurance that such changes will be made.

"The jail was found to be clean and in excellent sanitary condition, with food both better in quality and variety, being provided the prisoners, and with generally better conditions prevailing than at the time of the former investigation. Our investigation warrants us in expressing the conclusion that the administration of the sheriff's office and of the county jail has materially improved since the former investigation made by this body. We believe earnest efforts are now being made by this officer to render satisfactory public service."

Horticultural Commissioner
(The horticultural commissioner was commended for his work and just a few minor changes were suggested.)

"After discussion and communication with many growers and packing house managers of the county, we find that the larger part of the criticism and dissatisfaction with this office has its origin in instances of compulsion in the enforcement of quarantine regulations. A horticultural commissioner without the quality of courage would be a serious misfit. Our investigations lead us to conclude that the present incumbent is not only courageous but fair and impartial in his efforts. We are likewise of the opinion that the large amount of money spent by this office is necessary and justifiable for the protection of Orange county's most important industry, that the service rendered is prompt and intelligent, and as effective as can reasonably be expected, of pest-control, quarantine and standardization enforcement, and that such services are vital to this county.

"The farm advisor was commended and no criticisms were offered.

Superintendent of Highways and Road Department
The superintendent of highways seems to have his work well in hand, and the office accounts with the exception of a few minor details are kept in a satisfactory manner, with costs, maintenance and depreciation records available.

"The yards and shops are neat, orderly and well supervised, with a close check on all equipment in the respective districts. With a few exceptions the roads of the county are in good condition, indicating that the department heads are in close touch with this work.

"There are some corners at intersections of main roads where in the interest of public safety we feel that additional property should be purchased which would permit of the corners being rounded, providing more room on the turns.

"There was property purchased by the county, commencing in 1926, for acquiring a right-of-way for what is known as the Century boulevard, and some of this property is held in pawn for the county. For other parts thereof no record title is apparently held, and it is still assessed to the original owners as acreage. We recommend that the supervisors investigate this immediately.

"With reference to recommendation and criticism in the audit of Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, whom the board of supervisors had audit the accounts of the road department in January, 1927, we cite:

"1. Destruction of Records. Our investigation satisfied us that only such records were destroyed as from which all data of importance had first been transcribed into the books and accounts of the department.

"The authority for the destruction was given by the former superintendent of highways, and while we do not believe any improper motive was involved, we consider it altogether improper for any county officer to have any county records destroyed, except upon order of the superior court or board of supervisors.

"2. The check for $718.35 of the Drainage Construction company was shown to be a guaranty for a contract to place county roads in good condition after constructing sewers.

"3. The over-payment to the Torba Gravel company is a question of interpretation of a contract, and is in the hands of the district attorney's office.

"4. The criticism that the road equipment was not inventoried in a satisfactory manner would not be well founded as to present conditions. By using inventory lists of road equipment furnished by the office of the road department and the assistance of the yard foreman, we were able to check these inventories in eight hours.

"From our examination of the inventory taken by the auditors working for Lybrand, Ross Brothers the old fashioned, primitive way of washing clothes still exists. The womenfolk carry their baskets of soiled clothes to the nearest canal and there, from a platform built specially for this purpose, do the family washing by hand.

What a boon to them a Johnson Multi-Speed Washer would be...their delicate lace caps and collars washed gently and safely at a low speed...the heavier garments washed rapidly and thoroughly at a faster speed. Hours each week saved for more pleasant things.

For over a quarter of a century Johnson Washers have relieved our mothers and wives of the most arduous task of keeping house. And today the Johnson Multi-Speed Washer stands first in the field of accomplishments...the only Multi-Speed Washer made and the only washer backed by its manufacturer with a twenty year guarantee bond.

SANTA ANA CAGERS STAND HIGH IN RACES

SPORTSMATTER

UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Orangeburg, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Ted Sandwina, the man mountain from over the Rhine, may never make his way to within striking distance of the heavyweight championship of the world, but up here at Gus Wilson's Training Camp, the German Goliath already has been elected the champion eater of all time.

Gus and his amiable aides, Monsieur and Madame Le Fort, gaze in awe when Ted the Trencherman goes through his gastronomical feats.

"Nom d'un nom, never did I see anything like it," exclaimed Emile, when Sandwina, after having stoked away a two-pound steak with three kinds of vegetables, soup, salad, and all the customary trimmings including a yard of French bread, asked if he please might have a sandwich with his coffee.

And then the German topped off his meal by eating four oranges and six apples, the camp's entire supply of after-dinner fruit. They try to tell Ted that it shouldn't be done, and that sooner or later he will do his stomach more harm than all the wallows of the heavyweights he meets in the ring. But Sandwina turns a deaf ear and shuffles out to the kitchen for a little snack between meals. He knows he's not going anywhere in the fight business, and he figures he might as well enjoy himself in the eating business, where he is without a peer.

Running a training camp for prize fighters, most of them, of course, second raters, is a business that might not appeal to everyone. Personally, I consider such a camp a rather dull sort of place. One is tossed so constantly against so many blunted mentalities.

But Gus Wilson, the genial, hustling, ever-worried trainer, runs his camp efficiently and everyone has a pretty good time. His assistants, the Le Forts, help out considerably in that respect. The camp at Orangeburg is patronized principally by foreign boxers, and there is a constant jabbering of French and Flemish.

At that, one can have more fun at a training camp such as Wilson's than at the headquarters of a heavyweight champion. No one at Orangeburg is obliged to talk in whispers, stand at attention and walk on tip toe.

Gus has had experience with both kinds of camp, for he was second in command to Francois Descombes when Gorgeous Georges Carpentier was training at Manhasset for the first "Battle of the Century."

There was little of the social atmosphere of Lake Villa in the quiet old Manhasset farm house, but there certainly was an air of unrest and mystery. Georges grew grouchy and grouchy as the day of the fight approached.

That was the time when they worked the old "secret training" gag and fooled most of the sports writers into belief that Carpentier had something up his sleeve. Except for certain stipulated periods, the Man would sneak out to the ring behind the barn, and after all the guards would sneak out to the ring behind the barn, and after all the guards were at their posts and someone had peered beneath all the beds to see that no newspaperman was lurking about, the French boxer would go through his secret training.

What did he do? Well, since I was there, I can tell the truth. Carpentier went through precisely the same sort of workout he followed on days when the public wanted him. He didn't know how to do anything different. But it was a good publicity stunt.

MILLIONAIRE LIKELY TO BE WINNER OF SPEED HANDICAP AT TIJUANA TRACK FEB. 12

TIJUANA RACE TRACK, Mex., Feb. 6.—The name of a millionaire is quite likely to be written into the record of the Speed Handicap, Sunday, February 12. As a matter of fact the Speed Handicap, first of the major Tijuana stakes, belongs in the "Gold Coast" category by reason of the fact that virtually all of the owners of the most likely starters boast of somewhat Croesus-like bankrolls.

Rip Rap, Bramstar and Jim Crow are nominated by Mrs. Louise Vlau. She is a wealthy horsewoman of New York and Los Angeles. Mrs. Vlau has one of the most costly strings of thoroughbreds at the Tijuana track. Her investment in horses runs close to $300,000.

Allen Heavy Plunger. Another from the ranks of wealth is Marvin Allen, San Diego sportsman. Allen is one of the heaviest plungers at the Tijuana track, frequently wagering $5000 or more when he likes one from his stable.

BEAVERS SIGN JACK WARHOP, PITCHING VET

Jack Warhop, a veteran pitcher who has been through the thick and thin of many a major league campaign, has signed with the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league and will be seen in action at the Orange County Fair grounds where the Beavers will train this spring, beginning March 4.

Warhop will serve in the capacity of a relief gunner, it is understood. Manager Ernie Johnson also will rely on the old timer to help coach some of his young heavies.

Last season Warhop belonged to Bridgeport of the Eastern league and shook a no-hit, no-run game out of his season during the summer. A good part of his major league service was given to the New York Yankees.

Stan Baumgartner, former Portland southpaw pitcher, who came to the Coast leaguers from the Athletics in the summer of 1926, has asked President Tom L. Turner for his release in order, he says, to accept a contract with a big league club, the name of which he would not divulge.

Dr. Peltzer Runs In Chicago Friday

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—In preparation for his second American appearance, Dr. Otto Peltzer, German runner, will begin workouts here Tuesday or Wednesday. He was reported enroute from the east today.

Peltzer will run in the annual I. A. C. games here next Friday night.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 6.—At least another week's ban on athletic contests for Stanford university was ordered today as a result of the recent mild outbreak of infantile paralysis.

Jordon, Colima Meet Here Wednesday

SECOND DELHI BOXING LINEUP IS ANNOUNCED

Murrilla, Wyrick to Hold Semi-windup Limelight; Al Hicks On Card Again

Young Colima, brother of the widely known Bert Colima, and Johnny Jordon, advertised as the amateur bantamweight champion of the far west, were matched today to box the windup at the Delhi Amateur Athletic club Wednesday night.

In closing the match, Promoter Boyd Ellis made a ten-strike, beating several other large amateur houses who were bidding strongly for the pair.

Colimas and Jordon met six weeks ago in Los Angeles and Jordon got the decision, a hairline one, after four rounds of the toughest going.

Jordon Highly Praised. Fans who attended Ellis' opening show last week are high in their praise of Jordon. He won the main event by stopping Pete Pena in the third round of an exciting mill, showing a puissant punch and a high degree of boxing skill. He weaved in and out like a boy of great promise.

Colima bids fair to follow in the footsteps of his famous kin, Bert, who has been a main eventer at all of the Southern California clubs for many years. The youngster is a bit green but he is learning his tricks rapidly and there is nothing the matter with his sock right now. Colima does most of his gym work at the Compton arena.

Dave Murrilla and Cliff Wyrick, welterweights, will fall away in the semi-windup and Ellis thinks this one may steal the show. He says either man is capable of scoring a knockout.

Al Hicks Flashy Performer. Another performer of note on the new card is Al Hicks, a flashy colored lightweight who created a sensation at Delhi last week by stowing away that good boy Henry Olgin in jig time. Hicks reminds strongly of "Bubb-Saw" Barrows, an old time Delhi favorite, in that he throws leather continually. Hicks goes against Art Palmer in the third bout.

Anahelm will be represented on the bill by Johnny Hernandez, who used to parade under the handle of Johnny Nandez in the old days. Hernandez draws Paul Stewart, a Seal Beach product.

Jack Beazine and Jimmy Cox, light heavyweights, are the only big boys on the program. The curtain-raiser will usher in George Miller, former star from the U.S.S. Pennsylvania who now makes his headquarters at San Juan Capistrano, and Leo Loftus, one of the many boys working out at the old Vernon Athletic club.

P. C. L. MEN MEET IN SAN FRANCISCO

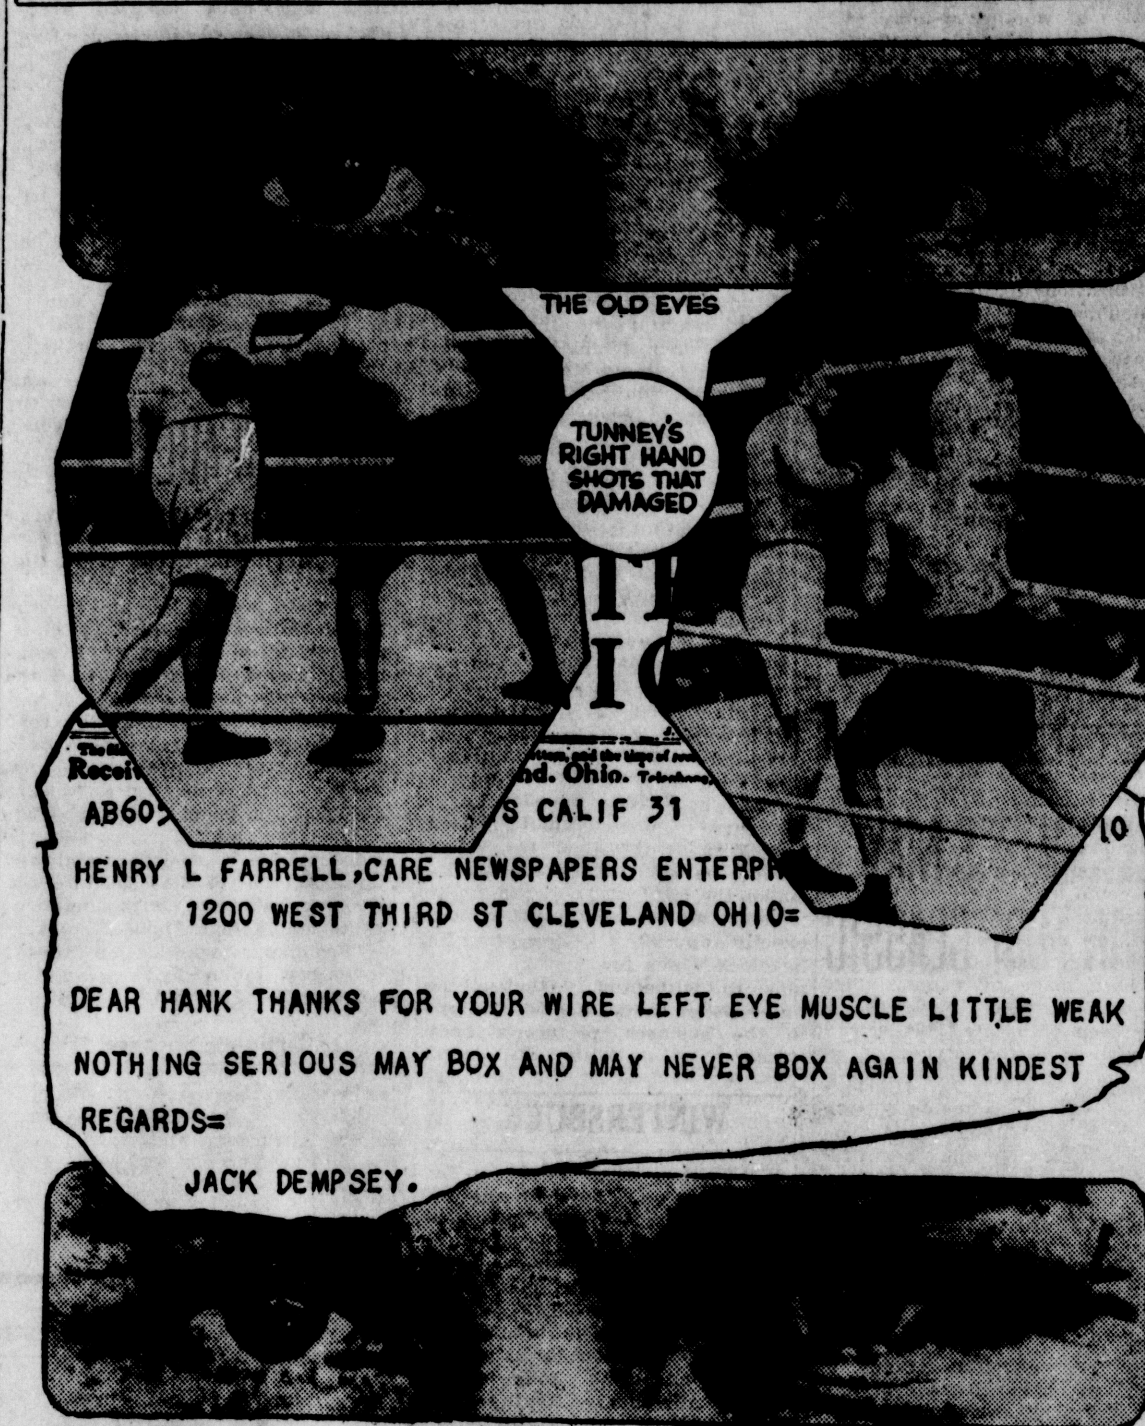

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Officials of the Pacific Coast league will meet here today to prepare a schedule for the 1928 baseball season in accord with a split season program adopted at a previous session.

Possibility of clashes over Admission day dates was seen in advance of the meeting, as the Portland club was reported demanding a home game on the California holiday date.

Fred Rivers, secretary, will represent Seattle at the meeting instead of Bill Klepper, president.

FARRELL BELIEVES JACK DEMPSEY THROUGH WITH RING

AFTER THE SECOND TUNNEY BATTLE

Fighter Blames Weak Eye; Scribe Thinks Wife Influenced Him

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(NEA Service Sports Writer)

Jack Dempsey is definitely out of Tex Rickard's summer fighting program. The colorful former champion, who sent the world into hysterics with his seventh-round rally in Chicago last summer, is through for the summer and may never fight again.

Twenty-four hours before Tex Rickard, announced that Dempsey could not be in one of his summer spectacles the writer received an answer to a telegram sent to Dempsey:

"Left eye muscle a little weak and may never box again."

Never Minimized Frailties. Anyone who has known Dempsey for years, as the writer has known him, realized from that message that Dempsey was through. He never minimized his frailties before. He always was "in the pink and ready to go."

His eyes, his friends knew, have been bad for a long time. The eyes and cheek bones were abused in the Tunney fights and his eye lids were cut open by sparring partners before several of his big bouts.

We never thought that Dempsey would become a down-and-out fighter because he has too much money put away, and one day, sitting on the back porch of his cottage in Great Falls where he was training for the Gibbons fight, he said:

Dempsey Tells Views. "Listen, I'm never going to get punched goofy. I'll know when it's time to quit and I'm going to quit then."

Rickard may not have given out the real reason why Dempsey suddenly decided to pass up a half-million. Mrs. Dempsey knows and she's been after him for years to quit. He's got enough money and he has earned glory and fame.

Before the last fight with Tunney, old Bill Muldoon, senior member of the New York Boxing Commission, advised Dempsey to hang up the gloves.

"Live to be old and healthy like Sorbett," Muldoon said, and Dempsey apparently has decided to do it.

Howard Craghead Signs With Oaks

FRESNO, Calif., Feb. 6.—Howard Craghead, young relief pitcher of the Oakland Coast league club, has mailed his 1928 contract and will report for spring training at Myrtle Dale Hot Springs February 20.

The husky moundman has been attending Fresno State college since the close of the 1927 season.

HITCHCOCK STARS

SAN MATEO, Calif., Feb. 6.—Led by Tommy Hitchcock, the Ranch San Carlos polo team defeated the Burlingame-San Mateo Blues five, 7 to 5. Hitchcock, foremost player of the nation, scored five goal shots.

Looks and Slides

YOUTH IS SERVED. The names of several great track and field stars of the past few years are missing from the All-America track selections of Secretary-Treasurer Daniel J. Ferris of the Amateur Athletic union, and in their places are found the names of younger men, many in the collegiate ranks.

One finds missing the names of Paddock, Murchison, McGrath, Helrich and Taylor. Also, it is noticed that Harold Osborn holds only one place on the Ferris selections instead of the three as in other years.

Youth is no respecter of age, and it is youth that has displaced these veterans of the track world. Karl Wildermuth, Lancelotti, Ross, Sabin Carr, Ray Conger, Johnny Gibson, Herman Phillips, Anton Burg and other young track stars are taking the spotlight.

It must not be taken for granted, however, that the veterans are through. With the exception of Loren Murchison, who is recovering from a recent illness, all of them are pretty certain to be in competition this summer.

AGE OF SPECIALIZATION

It is worthy of note, in view of the recent statements of Dr. Otto C. Peltzer on track specialization, that only two athletes gained more than one place on Ferris' all-star squad.

Willie Rittola, the Finnish runner, and Harry Hinkel, of the New York A. C., have four and two places, respectively.

Rittola is given, and given deservedly, first choice in the six-mile run, the ten-mile run, the steeplechase and the cross-country. He won national titles in all these events last year.

Hinkel displaces Willie Plant in the mile.

CONTESTS WITH PASADENA THIS WEEK WEIGHT

Local Varsity and 'B' To Tangle with Oaks Here Tomorrow Night

For the first time in the history of man, Santa Ana high school has all of its basketball team well advanced in their respective divisions that they can be serious championship contenders. The threat of many lean years is partially appeased this week.

With three more games ranging on their Coast Preparatory league schedule, the Saint Vals is tied for third place and Class B and Class C fives are for second.

Honors in the major division will hardly go to any school than Long Beach or San I these teams having negotiated more than halfway through schedules with unblemished records. They get together at Beach next Saturday afternoon what virtually amounts to a championship strength.

Jackrabbits Get Scare. Long Beach got a scare in game with the scrappy South adena troupe last Friday but pulled out with a six-point victory. San Diego was hard p in the first half at Whittier, ing 10 to 9 at the interm but finished with a champion flourish to sink the Poets, 34.

After two successive weeks the road, Santa Ana returns to protection of its own gymnasium this week. Pasadena, a proven favorite for the title but a much humbled one, will Coach Bill Foot's troupe Friday night and Santa should be able to hold its against the discouraged Bu who started the season oppressively only to be so ruth thrown aside in subsequent ments.

Pasadena will be further ened this week by the absence Merle Matter, brilliant forward who became a nine-semester dent and consequently ineligible for further activities last week. Matter wasn't in the line week and the lowly Albi Moors sprang a surprise by out the Pasadena in the minute of play, 16 to 14.

Lighties in Thick of R. Santa Ana's lightweight gations stand a much better of winning the bunting than big brothers. Coach Bill "Bees" and Coach Clyde "Cees" are both hard on the of the pace-setting Pasa, and their meetings this week the two Bulldog squads will.

COUNTY LEAGUE NEARS END OF CASABA RACES

Basketball champions of the major division of the Orange County league will be crowned within three weeks. Play will be resumed Friday and the schedule will be completed the following week, games being booked both for Tuesday and Friday, February 14 and 17, respectively.

The county championship tournament, between the winners of the divisions in the major league and the victors of the sections in the small school circuit, will be held February 24 and 25. Brea-Olinda, San Juan Capistrano and Garden Grove are in the smaller loop.

Only one upset marked the past week, that being the unexpected defeat, and a decisive one, of the previously unbeaten Huntington Beach Class D five by Orange.

League standings follow:

Kid Mexico's Protege Becomes Pro

Wendell ("Babe") Long, promising Long Beach school lad who is under contract to the veteran Huntington Beach boxer and manager, Kid Mexico, will turn professional Wednesday night when he faces Young Bolo in the semi-windup at Wilmington.

Long, a bantamweight, has confined all of his ring activities in the past to "Red" Hamilton's amateur arena at Huntington Beach where he beat all comers with monotonous regularity.

DUDLEY LEADS FIELD IN TEXAS OPEN GOLF

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 6.—The second 18-hole round of the Texas Open golf tournament got under way today with Ed Dudley, Hollywood, Calif., leading the field.

Dudley turned in a 72, one over par, for the first 18 holes played yesterday. Tom Lally, local pro, followed Dudley with a 73.

Some of the country's leading golfers fared badly because of wet going. Bobby Cruikshank, defending champion, turned in a 74 to tie with three others for third place.

Macdonald Smith, Great Neck, L. I., who has shown the best form during this winter's tournaments, took 75, as did Tommy Armour, National Open champion. Harry Cooper had a 75.

Many valuable prizes will be at stake when Santa Ana and Orange county golfers tee off next morning in the championship tournament, to be held on the public course overlooking Newport bay. The event will be conducted under the supervision of Joe Szarinski, club professional.

The Irvine company, owner of the land on which the links are located, has donated a handsome cup for the winner and the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce recently voted funds to purchase a size trophy for second prize.

Other awards include a caddy bag by Schaefer and Hamilton, Lew Amby a trophy by the Hawley sporting goods store, Santa Ana, and a prize by Given and Cassan, Santa Ana druggists.

G. L. Ammons, who conducts the clubhouse, will spread a chicken dinner to the four golfers making the lowest scores during tournament play.

TRIS SPEAKER TO PLAY WITH A'S NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—Tris Speaker today looked forward to his twentieth season in the American league as the center fielder of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The veteran outfielder came to terms with Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, over the telephone last night, and will report to the A's training camp at Fort Myers, Fla., on March 1.

"I arrived here from the south yesterday and talked to Connie over the long distance telephone at Mt. Pleasant, Fla., and decided to accept his offer," Speaker said.

"We are both satisfied with the terms," Speaker probably took a cut off the salary he received at Washington last year in order to continue in major league baseball. He was said to have received $30,000 for last season's work with the Senators and an additional $30,000 for signing a contract.

Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, released Speaker because he did not care to assume the heavy salary of the veteran for another year.

2 OIL WELLS UNDER WAY IN ATWOOD AREA

ATWOOD, Feb. 6.—One new well started drilling and work was commenced on a new rig last week.

The Standard Oil spudded on the fourth well for the Amheim Union Water company Yorba lake and the Union Oil company is putting up the rig for Morse No. 8. The new Union well is located in the center of the Morse lease, on which the Richfield offices and reduction plant of the Union are located. Considerable preliminary work was necessary before starting the rig, as a new road had to be constructed.

In the East Coyote field, the Holly Development company is drilling out the cement in the 11-inch water string in well No. 1. The well is down 2450 feet and the water string was set at 2800 feet.

The Chickasaw has Yorba down 3550 feet. The General Petroleum has definitely decided to abandon the well. The well was put down to 4850 feet without any showings of oil. Completed last summer, it showed considerable water and was drilled deeper in an effort to make a paying well.

RITES TUESDAY FOR ANAHEIM DRUGGIST

ANAHEIM, Feb. 6.—That the accident which cost the life of Orin Mullinix, pioneer Anaheim druggist, was unavoidable, was the decision of a coroner's jury made following the formal inquest held over the body in the Backus hall here, late Saturday afternoon.

Mullinix was instantly killed Monday when a Santa Fe passenger train, northbound, struck him at the Ball road crossing about a mile south of Anahelm.

Funeral services are to be held from the Back-Terry and Campbell funeral chapel tomorrow morning.

Burial is to be made in the family plot in Fairhaven cemetery.

College Friends Asked To Dine in Honor of Recent Newly-weds

Miss Mary McFadden, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur McFadden, 1108 North Main street, was hostess Friday night to a group of friends from Pomona college, where she is a student, at a dinner party held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Hill of South Pasadena. Mr. and Mrs. Hill were married December 27, and Mrs. Hill was formerly Miss Janet Raitt, a cousin of Miss McFadden.

The approach of spring was heralded in the table decorations. A large basket of exquisitely tinted peach blossoms centered the table while tall candles and other appointments furthered the pale pink color scheme.

A great deal of merriment ensued when each guest donned a costume which was presented by Mr. and Mrs. McFadden, who presided over the dinner table.

The evening was spent in pleasant conversation and music, and a succession of interesting games. Those who enjoyed the affair included Miss McFadden, the hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Miss Betty Pelter of San Diego, Miss Viola Lyon of Fullerton, Miss Lois Platt and Miss Laura Jolliffe of Long Beach, Joseph Swindt of Pomona, Jean Becker of Altadena, Wilford Taylor of this city, Stuart Gregory of Whittier, Norris Bradbury of Fontana, and Garthwalte Hinds of Santa Cruz.

Sunday School Class Meets in Santa Ana

The home of Mrs. Russell Calhoun, Highland street was the scene last Thursday night of a delightful party when members of the Philathea Sunday school class of the Garden Grove Baptist church gathered there for their monthly meeting.

Miss Maud Aronhalt presided at the business session and also led the devotions. A social time followed with the valentine motif.

The committee which assisted Mrs. Calvin in entertaining included Mrs. C. Z. Wasson, Mrs. E. H. Kling, and Mrs. Della Emerson. Guests included Miss Grace Hedstrom, Miss Gladys Hadden, Miss Maud Aronhalt, Mrs. Doris Tyler, Mrs. Mary Darsch, Mrs. Etta Chambers, Mrs. Esther Gilbreath, Mrs. Goldie Arrowsmith, Mrs. Albert Simmons, Mrs. Brinton Hale, Mrs. Hattie Beardsley, Mrs. Myrtle Berham and Mrs. Pearl Dunbar.

FIFTIETH WEDDING DAY MADE INCENTIVE FOR SHORT TRIP

MR. AND MRS. S. J. JACKMAN

It is a long distance from East Liverpool, Ohio, to Santa Ana, California, and it is a long distance from a wedding day in 1878 to a wedding anniversary in 1928, but both journeys have been undertaken happily by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Jackman of 262 South Broadway, who were married fifty years ago in East Liverpool, and who, twenty-two years ago, came to the balmy Southland where they have remained ever since.

The fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day was spent by Mr. and Mrs. Jackman in San Diego, where they went on an enjoyable little trip as guests of their youngest son and his wife the Rev. and Mrs. Jackman in San Diego. Unique Dinner Party Shared by Members Of B. and P. W.

Proving themselves winners when it came to planning and preparing a dinner party, members of the losing side in the recent Business and Professional Women's attendance contest, on Saturday night entertained the victors at one of the most enjoyable and original parties in the club's history. Their plans were made with strict secrecy, so it was a puzzle to some of the guests who finally found themselves up in the hills near Orange County park, with the Orange County Health camp as their ultimate destination.

Miss Virginia Craig was captain of the vanquished team, and with the co-operation of Mrs. Carhart (Amelia Meagher) and her other workers, planned a truly delicious dinner amidst a unique setting. The guests were asked to meet at the Y. W. C. A. rooms at 6 o'clock, and were consumed with curiosity to find their hostesses in waiting attire. Also all automobiles were left parked near the Y. W. and a bus appeared, to take the crowd to an unknown destination.

Once arrived at the camp, the interested guests found the huge dining hall embowered with greenery, and its long tables sparkling with red carnations and red candles while scarlet heart place-cards heightened the valentine effect.

The delectable dinner began with a grapefruit cocktail, and continued with chickens, stuffed with chestnuts and roasted to a turn by Mr. and Mrs. Carhart, and served with mashed potatoes, green peas and a Neapolitan salad, followed by ice cream roll and coffee.

The evening was a gay one of music, song and dancing, and the guests particularly enjoyed learning some of the latest dance steps, taught by one of their number, Miss Mabel Rockwell of the Mabel Rockwell School of Dancing. There were also two entertaining short talks, one by Miss Craig, captain of the losing team and chief hostess of the evening, and the other by Miss Harriet Whidden, whose team won the victory in the contest.

Saturday's rainfall interfered somewhat with the evening as many members found it impossible to be present. Those who shared the pleasant affair included Miss Craig, Miss Whidden, Mr. and Mrs. Carhart, Miss Lila B. Finley, Mrs. Susan Rutherford, Miss Lena Thomas, Miss Emma Lee Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Perkins, Mrs. Cecyl H. Drake, Miss Helen Gallagher, Miss Mary Smart, Miss Lila Ott, Miss Louise Kaiser, Miss Effie White, Mrs. Ruth Taylor Scudder, Miss Mabel E. McFadden, Miss Vanche Etelle Plumb, Mrs. Jenny Lasby Tessmann, Miss Lorraine French, Mrs. Lillian E. Fulton, Miss Alice V. Wasson, Miss May Beamer, Mrs. Hazel Northcross, Miss Lee Patton, Mrs. John Bruns, Mrs. Helen Woodworth, Miss Ethel Coffman, Miss Nancy Elder, Mrs. Mabel Rockwell, Miss Mae Gurr, Miss Mary Hilyard, Miss Minnie Mayhill, Miss Mabel Larick, Miss Beth Phillips and Miss Myrtle Meyer.

La Habra Happenings
Needle Club Meets
Members of the Thursday afternoon Needle club spent a pleasant afternoon Thursday while their needles flew in dainty fancy work, pausing only to enjoy refreshments, at the close of the afternoon.

Present were Mrs. R. Frost, Mrs. C. Guthrie, Mrs. Floyd Scott, Mrs. Vol Abshire of Montebello, Mrs. Clayton McCamish, Mrs. M. D. McCamish, Mrs. Charles McBride and Mrs. Leslie Jones.

Valentine Party
Miss Ruth Ware entertained the members of her Sunday School class at a Valentine party at her home Thursday evening. The valentine motif was not only carried out in the decorations but also in the refreshments served at the close of an evening of games.

In the class were Ada and Alice Hydspeith, Priscilla Stephenson, Harriet Thomas, Elsie Leach, Helen Soule, and the teacher, Mrs. E. Palmer. Two guests present were Miss Elizabeth Reese and Cecelia Harris.

Bide-a-Wee Club
Mrs. John Hatch was hostess to the Bide-a-Wee club at her home Wednesday afternoon at their regular meeting which was devoted to needlework. Red hearts were used for decorations, and home made hot tamales were served at the refreshment hour.

Participating in the social afternoon were Mrs. R. Frost, Mrs. C. Guthrie, Mrs. Floyd Scott, Mrs. Vol Abshire of Montebello, Mrs. Clayton McCamish, Mrs. M. D. McCamish, Mrs. Charles McBride and Mrs. Leslie Jones.

Ninetieth Birthday Is Happily Celebrated At Dinner Party

Surrounded by her sons and daughters and grandchildren, Mrs. A. E. Proctor of 233 North Orange street, Orange, yesterday presided as hostess at a delightful dinner at St. Ann's Inn in celebration of her ninetieth natal day.

Lavender and soft rose tints were used to embellish the table in harmony with the great basket of sweet peas which, combined with daffodils, smiled from the center. The flowers were sent by A. H. Proctor of Columbus, Wis., a son of the hostess, who with his wife and their son Alfred, were the only members of the family unable to be present.

The final feature of the happy dinner was the placing of a beautiful cake ringed with candles, before Mrs. Proctor for her to cut for her guests.

In the party were Mrs. A. E. Proctor, hostess and birthday celebrant; Mrs. S. W. Andrews and Miss Adelaide Proctor of the home; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Proctor of Minneapolis, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Proctor of Long Beach, Mr. and Mrs. William Hanna of Monrovia, and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Proctor of this city with their daughters and son, Louise, Dorothy and William.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Proctor arrived from Minneapolis recently to spend the remainder of the winter, and are guests at St. Ann's Inn.

Long Beach Guests at Junior College Dance
Sophomores of Santa Ana Junior college and students from Long Beach Junior college were guests Friday night at a dance held at Andrews gym by the freshman class of the school.

Jack Taylor, president of the freshman class, was in charge of the evening's program, and had arranged a number of feature dances which were enjoyed by the happy crowd of boys and girls gathered there.

Music for the affair was provided by Bob Thompson's orchestra. Punch and wafers were served throughout the evening. Chaperones included Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Beeman, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Russell, Miss Hazel Dawson and Miss Floy Wilson.

Young Hostess Greets Friends for Bridge
Miss Eva Dean Caskey was hostess Saturday night to a small group of friends who gathered at her home for an evening of bridge. Miss Caskey is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Caskey of 1633 East First street.

When scores were tallied at the end of the merry evening it was found that Miss Virginia Harris and Ray Mossberg had scored high while Miss Virginia Pope and Arthur Wakefield were low. Each couple received an attractive prize. Refreshments were served to the guests who included Miss Pope, Miss Harris, Miss Mary Lair O'Brien, Arthur Wakefield, Ray Mossberg, Fred Humiston, and Chester Page.

TASTY PUDDING

Engagement
Rings for Two
How charming and appropriate—this newly revived custom of exchanging betrothal rings! A jeweler's bride-to-be, matching in sentiment the diamond of her future husband, let us help you select from our beautiful engagement rings for both men and women. The designs are richly varied, the quality such as you would naturally expect of a Grue Guild Jeweler!

Household Hints
WHISK BROOMS
To renew the life of whisk brooms, clip the ends off even, tie a rag around the broom holding it straight and soak in hot suds for an hour.

DRY CELLARS
If your cellar floor is not cemented, sprinkle unslacked lime all over it. This will absorb moisture and prevent a moldy smell.

CEDAR CLOSET
You can make your own cedar closet by applying cedar oil with a brush to workwood and walls of any closet and laying pieces of shavings soaked in cedar oil on the floor.

HANGING CLOCK
Slip a colorful ribbon through the ring of your alarm clock and hang it on a peg in your kitchen instead of setting it on the table. It is handier and more decorative.

PICTURE WIRES
Pictures should be hung by two wires hanging vertically from the outside edges. A triangular hanging detracts from the picture.

ALLENE SUMNER

The Mrs. Coolidge's maid, it is said, has been making a habit of picking out the engagement ring for the bride. The day before the wedding, the parents introduced him to the jeweler whom they had selected. The ring was selected, and the bride-to-be was told to go to the jeweler to get it. The jeweler permitted it. The bride-to-be went home. The fiancé took a cab to the hotel, and the bride-to-be was waiting for him. The fiancé came. The bride-to-be said, "I wish I had a whip to make him go. I'd crack it loud up in the air and that would give him quite a scare. It really isn't thrilling when he travels on so slow."

ENGAGEMENT RING
Young man took his fiancée to the jeweler to get the engagement ring. The jeweler permitted it. The bride-to-be went home. The fiancé took a cab to the hotel, and the bride-to-be was waiting for him. The fiancé came. The bride-to-be said, "I wish I had a whip to make him go. I'd crack it loud up in the air and that would give him quite a scare. It really isn't thrilling when he travels on so slow."

THE BRAT'S DOLL
A value of a hobby is shown in the case of a young girl who has taken up the collecting of dolls. The girl is a real "line" on the subject, and is it any wonder the holy estate doesn't always when the facts of character such a secret thing?

CAREERS
Working women of New York, one out of every three in works for wages, give interesting statistics. There 3890 women barbers, 5000 nurses, 10000 housewives, 3120 editors, 5200 musicians, 20,000 telephone operators, 69,000 stenographers, 33,000 bookkeepers, 23,000 salespeople, sprinkling of paper-hangers, stevedores, taxi drivers, tuners, glass blowers, flag-cobblers, and at least one representative of every and business and profession. It is again pertinent to that the so-called "career" is in the minority, making it hard to believe that this of routine workers really of routine jobs to the routine job of home-making.

TEA SANDWICH
Even the most efficient and charming hostess is sometimes perplexed over what to serve to her club members when they meet at her house. The "happy medium" is usually wanted for an informal affair. Not to seem to "skimp," not to overdo and yet have something not quite ordinary—this is the usual problem confronted.

TEA SANDWICH
The little repast must be light enough not to spoil the guests' dinner, for after-club refreshments are apt to be a bit later than the regular tea hour. For this reason thin sandwiches are more to be desired with tea or coffee than with sweet cakes. The sweetness tends to cloy and satiate the appetite.

TEA SANDWICH
Tea or coffee, just as the hostess prefers, can be served. But hot chocolate topped with whipped cream should be eschewed in this day of dieting and at a late tea hour.

TEA SANDWICH
Here are sandwich fillings which can be used between white bread, whole wheat bread, brown bread, or between two different kinds of bread. Always cream the butter before attempting to spread bread for sandwiches.

TEA SANDWICH
Mix equal portions of cream cheese and preserved ginger, finely chopped, using cream to make moist.

TEA SANDWICH
Cream cheese, jelly and chopped nut meats worked together are good.

TEA SANDWICH
Cream cheese mixed with enough Russian salad dressing to be soft but not runny is particularly delicious in a whole wheat bread sandwich.

TEA SANDWICH
Peanut butter and orange marmalade combine to make an interesting filling. Equal portions of peanut butter and marmalade are mixed with enough sweet cream to make moist. These sandwiches are very good with tea.

TEA SANDWICH
Sardine butter is made by pounding four large sardines, skinned and boned, to a smooth paste with 4 tablespoons butter and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. When smooth, work in 2 hard cooked eggs forced through a sieve.

TEA SANDWICH
Lobster or crab butter is made by pounding equal quantities of fish and butter to a smooth paste. Fresh or canned fish can be used. When making sandwiches, spread one slice of bread with mayonnaise and the other with the "butter."

STORY BY NAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNOCK

(Read The Story, Then Color The Picture)

"Giddap there, hound," was Clowry cried. "Real fast is how we like to ride." And then he said, "I wish I had a whip to make him go. I'd crack it loud up in the air and that would give him quite a scare. It really isn't thrilling when he travels on so slow."

"Well, goodness me, aren't you ashamed? You ought to be," someone exclaimed. "It isn't kind to use a whip upon a friendly hound. He's going fast enough for me, and anyway, you ought to see that it's not easy for one dog to pull up 'cross the ground."

This made poor Clowry hang his head. "I guess perhaps you're right," he said. "I quite forgot that all of us are heavy as can be. 'Tis best we treat this old dog right. We'll just stay here and hang on tight, and let him take us where he will, to see what we can see."

So, on they went, across the hills, and several times almost took spills. The woods were now left far behind and they were in the clear. "Say, this is weather that I love," said Scouty. "Just look up above. The sun is shining brightly, and I'm mighty glad I'm here."

Just then the hound perked up his head. "Say, he sees something," Coppy said. "And now he's running faster, but perhaps it's just in play." "Oh, no it isn't," Carpy cried. "A rabbit is what he has spied." And sure enough, the rabbit jumped 'bout twenty feet ahead.

The dog barked and raced along. Said Scouty, "Something will go wrong. I hope the rabbit disappears just so our hound will stop." And then the bunch began to groan. Their little wagon hit a stone, and tipped. Just as the dog broke 'way, the Tinies took a flop.

(The Tinymites help the rabbit to escape in the next story.)

Babbitt Tells
Golden Rule
Value

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A man who has made a great success of his business explained a code of ethics that are unique enough to pass along as news. They may interest others as they interested me.

"There were four of us boys at home," he said, "and we've all made good in the business world. Not millionaires, but each of us has a good income, money saved, good health and a good set of nerves, although none of us is under fifty."

"Mother had the golden rule over the door of the parlor and another one framed beside the bench where we used to wash. She made us live up to it, too. And often we'd have long talks about what we'd do when we were men."

"Whatever you do, boys, I want you to more than work for your employer," she would say, "I want you to work for the people. The people. Don't forget the people."

"Sounded pretty puzzling but we found out what she meant later on, and it's worked like a charm. Take me for instance. I'm in the real estate business. Now I get my commission on sales and rents. My money depends on what the property owner makes. A lot of real estate men, I guess, never see the other side, the renters, or buyers. They're trying to do all the favors the other way—for the man who pays him."

"But I took Mother's idea of trying to take the side of the people who were renting or were going to buy a house. Every time I rented or sold a house I pretended those people were my own folks. I nearly always took the customer's side unless he was unreasonable. I went right up from the first, for I've found the other fellows all began to look at things the way I did."

It struck me as the best booster stuff I'd heard in a blue moon. Why not page Mr. Babbitt?

BREAKFAST—Baked winter pears, cereal, cream, crisp broiled bacon, creamed potatoes, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of spinach soup with spinach balls, open egg sandwiches, stuffed glass apples, milk, tea.

DINNER—English mutton chops, broiled twice baked white potatoes, parsnip cakes, curly endive, canned peaches, spice cake, milk, coffee.

Stuffed Glass Apples

Pare and core fine large apples. Cook in heavy syrup to half cover. Baste and turn while cooking. When fruit is tender and clear but not broken remove from syrup and cool. Pour remaining syrup over and around the apples for it will form a jelly when cold. Moisten equal quantities of chopped nut meats and seeded and chopped raisins with orange marmalade. Fill cavities of apples with mixture. Serve with a garnish of whipped cream slightly sweetened and flavored with a drop of vanilla.

Remember that four tablespoons of whipping cream will go a long way for garnishing.

Beauty Chats

By ANN ALYSIS

Now that we have looked into our mouths and found how nature has colored the teeth in varying tints and shades of pearl to match our varying complexions, we shall proceed to the consideration of ways and means to preserve these jewels in all their lustrous beauty.

The dentifrices used at present are of three kinds, pastes, powders and liquids. All forms are on the market in infinite variety.

Chalk, pumice, stone, cuttlefish bone, magnesium carbonate and white castile soap are the cleansing and polishing ingredients usually selected for tooth powders. Not all appear in any one powder. To what ever cleansers have been chosen, aromatic oils, such as peppermint or wintergreen, or a fragrant powder, such as orris root, are added for flavoring. The ingredients are then thoroughly mixed.

By the addition of glycerine, honey or simple syrup to a tooth powder paste is made. In addition, most pastes contain powdered soap. Liquid dentifrices vary in formula, as do the others, but almost all contain soap, glycerine, alcohol and fragrant antiseptic oils.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

"The Cohens and Kellys in Paris," current attraction at the Yost Broadway, is life jammed with wholesome human touches of pathos and comedy. It is a beautiful painting from the delicate brush of the great artist, William Beaudine, director of "Little Annie Rooney," "Sparrows" and "Hold That Lion."

Each member of the all-star cast is admirably chosen.

It is not a farce comedy, but it is drama of the relations between the Irishman and the Jew told with an eye always on the comic possibilities of the tale.

George Sidney, who was featured in the role of Cohen in the first "Cohens and Kellys," headlines in the seemingly funny adventures of the Irish and Jewish families in Paris. J. Farrell MacDonald is co-featured as Kelly and gives an inimitable portrayal.

Vera Gordon and Kate Price are back again in their original roles of Mrs. Cohen and Mrs. Kelly, louder and funnier than ever.

WEST END THEATER

Ted Wells again scores a clean beat over his colleagues of the celluloid in his latest starring vehicle, "The Clean-Up Man," a western, now showing at the West End. It is a picture that has all the essentials of a thrilling screen drama, action, comedy and a hard-riding, hard-shooting manly chap in the role of the hero.

Wells plays the part of a cattleman on whose ranges nature has planted huge caverns which serve as the refuge of a daring outlaw and his band of lawless henchmen.

WEST COAST WALKER

John Gilbert and Greta Garbo—the couple who made new film history in "Flesh and the Devil," appear together again—this time in a world classic, and one of the most poignant human interest romances of all literature, in "Love," huge filmization of Tolstoy's "Anna Karenina," now playing at the West Coast-Walker theater.

It is a more romantic Gilbert than even appeared in "The Merry Widow" who gives the remarkable portrayal of Count Vronsky, the Russian aristocrat, and Miss Garbo, as the tragic Anna, has a role that one might well imagine written specially for her.

The story is a tense human interest tale—the story of a great love that sacrifices all, and that is dogged by sinister fate and dramatic tragedy. This story is set in gorgeous surroundings; the pomp and circumstances of the Russian aristocracy before the revolution, when Russia's court was the gayest in the whole world.

GERMANY WANTS BABY FILM

German psychologists have requested that the new film made in Vienna, Austria, for use in baby training be exhibited in Germany. The film analyzes a baby's complexes from birth to two years. It shows the little one's reaction to toys, sounds and human beings, and gives illustrations of its progress in love, anger, control over the body and limbs, self defense, and overcoming obstacles.

The picture was made at the Vienna Municipal Baby Home under the direction of Prof. Hildegard Hetzer, of the Psychological Institute of Vienna University.

U.S. FLAPPERS BY SCORE ON JAPAN VISIT

BY MILES W. VAUGHN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
TOKIO, Feb. 6.—The American flapper, turned world adventurer, has descended on Japan and for the next few months will cause conservative Japanese to do a great deal of speculating on the advantages of women's rights and equal suffrage.

Every year scores of American women, who far outnumber men nowadays as world travelers, pass through Japan on the "around-the-world" tour ships. And the Japanese never cease speculating on the peculiarities of short skirts, bobbed hair, cocktail drinking, the black bottom and other American peculiarities.

The first of the tour ships are due to arrive in Yokohama in February and scores of merchants, with gaudy signs in Japanese ideas of English, are ready to greet them with everything from "foreign style" haori, or Japanese coat, to resplendent kimonos which no self-respecting Japanese would wear as an outside garment.

Japanese always are vastly amazed at the custom of American women in entering public rooms and drinking cocktails, highballs or other foreign concoctions. While many Japanese women drink on occasion they seldom enter a public place and drink in the presence of men.

The custom of foreign men carrying packages for their wives or lifting the baby in and out of taxicabs also amazes conservative Japanese. If a Japanese housewife makes a purchase she carries it herself and most wives walk discreetly behind their husbands in the streets.

It also strikes the Japanese as unusual that so many American women should start on a trip around the world unescorted. To the Japanese mind it is the business of a woman to marry as soon as her family has selected a mate for her, and then she must obey her husband and his elder relatives until she has become a grandmother and is entitled to respect because of her age and the number of her children.

The Japanese also are amused—and sometimes irritated—by the insistence of most foreign women in being shown through the Yoshiwara or licensed districts. Police often stop the parties of foreign women who like to be guided through the haunts of their less fortunate sisters and turn them back.

All the Chinese merchants have the art of "skinning the tourists" perfected and will produce anything demanded and sell it at almost any price offered if the tourist bargains long enough. Enterprising Chinese merchants in Hongkong often rent barges which they anchor alongside the tour ships and use as shops.

L. A. MINISTER WILL SPEAK ON TUESDAY

Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the Church of Christ, Broadway and Walnut streets, E. C. Fugua, Los Angeles minister and lecturer will give the third of a series of weekly lectures on the book of Matthew. The third chapter of Matthew will be the subject of the lecture this week.

Those who have heard Mr. Fugua in his first two lectures are enthusiastic in their appreciation of the method in which his subjects are handled. He not only reveals an intimate knowledge of the Bible, but of profane history as well, and in the lectures he gives a unique and interesting blend of the two, it is said.

Mr. Fugua says in order to properly understand and appreciate Matthew's narrative of the life of Christ, it is necessary to understand the customs of the time, as well as the religious and mental outlook of the people, and in giving his lectures, he paints the picture of the Jewish nation at the time of Christ, in a realistic manner.

The lectures are free of charge and the public is invited to attend.

Seek Sportsman In Investigation Of Death Threats

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 6.—A prominent sportsman was being sought by police here today in connection with death threats alleged to have been telephoned to Armour Phillips, husband of Clara Phillips, "hammer murderer."

Phillips told police that only four persons know the number of his private telephone line and that the sportsman is one of these. He declared the man recently had falsely accused him of participation in a personal argument.

No warrant has been issued, but police are seeking the man for questioning. Phillips will not prosecute, but wants the misandromaniac straightened out, police said.

Happy Day!

HOW ARE YOU THIS MORNING, SWEET-HEART? THIS GLORIOUS SATURDAY PERFECT DAY?

HOW DO YOU KNOW WHAT THE DAYS LIKE? YOU HAVEN'T POKED YOUR NOSE OUT OF THE DOOR.

BUT WITH A WONDERFUL WIFE LIKE YOU, EVERY DAY IS GLORIOUS. IF I WAS FREEZING TO DEATH AND I THOUGHT OF YOU, I'D START TO WHISTLE AND FEEL GLAD.

STOP THAT. YOUR MESSING MY HAIR—I JUST COMBED IT!

EVER SINCE MY BROTHER ERNIE LEFT, HE'S BEEN A CHANGED MAN—I DON'T BLAME HIM. I, TOO, FEEL LIKE SOMETHING WENT AMAY THAT WASN'T NECESSARY LIKE NINES OR MUMPS.

OHIO SITUATION SPELLS HOOVER

Former Senator Theodore E. Burton declares that after a survey of the political situation in Ohio, he finds the prevailing sentiment for Herbert Hoover. He made this announcement in Washington. The United States Senator, Frank B. Willis from Ohio, who had already announced himself as a candidate for President, took instant issue with Mr. Burton. Senator Willis desires to be the favorite-son candidate from Ohio. As a rule, a favorite-son candidate is able to get a majority of the voters in his own state to support his candidacy against all comers. This is not always so, however. President Harding's candidacy did not receive a majority of the voters in Ohio in the presidential primary the year that he was nominated. It is probable that Secretary Hoover would be very much stronger than any one of Harding's opponents was throughout the Buckeye state.

The statement of Mr. Burton is very significant. He is in touch with all of the leaders of the state. He has always had the united support in his political ambitions and plans of Cleveland and Cuyahoga county. Undoubtedly the political organization of Toledo and Cincinnati, Akron and Youngstown are with him in his prediction and if Ohio is leaning toward Secretary Hoover to this extent, it is the most important evidence of the certainty of Mr. Hoover's nomination which we have noticed in the political horizon.

Senator Willis is a popular man in Ohio, and yet he is not so popular but that he ran seventy-five thousand votes behind his ticket when he ran for the United States Senate the last time, even though he had the united support of both the labor element and the "dry" element in Ohio, as against his opponent, Senator Pomeroy. This was an unusual combination to aid in a man's campaign. The big industrial centers would undoubtedly be for Hoover in Ohio and if a favorite son like Willis could not win against Hoover in Ohio, we see no reason for any other candidate to expect to beat Hoover in the convention.

Mr. Hoover is gaining in strength daily and it will not be long before the question of which will take the position of second place on the ticket, will be the only important problem to be faced by the National Republican convention.

TOO BAD HE MUST BE TONGUE-TIED

The message which Porto Rico conveyed to the American people through Colonel Lindbergh was an important and pathetic one. They asked for independence and for freedom and Colonel Lindbergh could not even make a reply. He had to talk on another subject. They were speaking for independence; he had to speak for commercial aviation. He had to speak of joining the countries together through the air for commercial purposes. They were pleading in the spirit of Patrick Henry.

In spite of our great efforts in the development of our country in its material resources, we cannot help wishing that we could stand at all times for the weaker countries which are struggling up toward the light of independence, and as the Porto Ricans expressed it, their own place in the sun, for which we struggled a hundred and fifty years ago. There are two aspects of this question, two views which we might have, one of them is that taken by Louis Kossuth, the Hungarian patriot-lecturer in this country seventy-five years ago. Kossuth spoke on behalf of Hungary with the purest English and finest diction that had probably been heard on the American platform up to that time. The eloquent Magyar was urged to speak on behalf of the slave by the American anti-slavery society. He refused to do it because he said it might lose Hungary some friends and his heart was in Hungary. Not so with O'Connell, the Irish representative in Parliament. When Wendell Phillips so eloquently referred to him, he said O'Connell spoke for the saddest people that the sun sees, but he went into the hall with the other anti-slavery members of Parliament and spoke against the slave trade, declaring that he had rather have his right hand forget its cunning and his tongue cleave to the roof of his mouth than that in his fight for Ireland, he should forget the negro one single hour.

Lindbergh was in an unfortunate position. We should have liked to have heard the unuttered reply to the Porto Rican's message which must have welled up in his heart.

BLASCO IBANEZ, REPUBLICAN

Vincente Blasco Ibanez is too little known in this country as a republican. He is known almost entirely for his novels, and mostly by a fiction reading people, whereas his career should endear him to the people of the United States for the very republican ideals which estranged him from his beloved Spain. Seven times Ibanez was elected Deputy from Valencia, and spent his term of office and his money for the republican cause in Spain. His imprisonment and exile recurred with almost monotonous regularity. In 1896 he was exiled for espousing the cause of the Cuban revolutionists. It was after that, when he seemed to be at the end of his career that he wrote his first book.

His methods for furthering his republican ideals and stirring up opposition to King Alfonso and Primo de Rivera were spectacular at times have brought upon him charges, by his enemies, of insincerity, of personal ambition, of being a "publicity hound." But those who have watched him most closely firmly disavow such charges. There is no question but what he has suffered for his republican ideals, that in his Latin manner he has worked and sorrowed for his beloved Spain from which he was exiled for the last four years.

Here in the United States he should have received compensation for the lack of sympathy in Spain. And America did support him but not in the way of a republican nation aiding a sturdy republican but of a wealthy nation being entertained and paying the bill.

The "Fifth Horseman of the Apocalypse" a best seller in this country toward the end of the last century, was followed and he became known even as an entertainer. His greatest contribution to the world was a moving picture.

portrayal of the horror of the Great war. At the time of his death Ibanez was at work on a novel of the League of Nations, which he called the "Fifth Horseman of the Apocalypse." It carried the gospel of peace. The novel is a great medium of thought and these thoughts of war and peace are worthy contributions to the world of a disappointed republican.

NOT A PLEASANT SUBJECT

Even implications of a white slave traffic are not regarded as a "nice" topic for discussion. It is even resented. But with evidences of its operation within our own community it is inexcusable to ignore it and leave the innocent and the helpless to become the prey.

The widespread publicity which is being given throughout the east to the disappearance of the Smith college freshman, has excited a statement from Captain John H. Ayers, head of the missing persons bureau of the New York police department that whereas the entire country was searching for that one girl and reams of publicity were being given her disappearance, in New York city alone thirty-one young girls were listed as missing last week.

Sometime ago the contents of the second part of the White Slave Traffic Commission's report, prepared for the League of Nations, which had been withheld from publicity for a time in the interest of the nations criticized in the report, was set forth.

In that report the countries are dealt with in alphabetical order with an appendix giving the laws of that particular country on the white slave traffic. "But," says the report, "it is clear that the traffickers manage to evade every restriction and the evidence discloses an elaborate organization for running the business to the great profit of third parties."

The fact that the United States has one of the cleanest records set forth in that statement is no reason for complacency because there were only one case and were the details of the sorrow and suffering of that one case comprehended, it would be enough to stir any one with any feeling of responsibility for the sins and sufferings of other people into immediate interest and action.

Defending Public Beaches

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Attorney General U. S. Webb of California makes a strong defense of the public right to the beach in a brief filed in an action now pending before the state supreme court attacking the constitutionality of the leasing law whereby numerous oil companies are despoiling the picturesque shore at Rincon and Seaciff in Ventura county. Mr. Webb does not rely upon the esthetic value of the coastline, but declares that the jurisdiction of California in the tidelands is a trust the state holds for the protection of navigation and fisheries. He charges that those seeking to drill on the beaches are prompted by greed alone.

"These interests of the public have been recognized in all civilized governments for more than 1000 years, and their destruction has been at different times and devices ways attempted, but they have survived to this day against every attack."

With the Governor, the Attorney General and the Surveyor General doing everything within their power to prevent the establishment of precedent which may be disastrous to the state as a whole, there will be hope that a way will be found to sustain by action of the court what is so palpably the best interest of the people, in this particular.

If there was a shortage of oil there might be some justification for devastating the finest playground provided by Nature, but no such shortage is in prospect.

OUR CHILDREN

By Angelo Patri

HE THAT HATH EARS
Kate rarely smiled. She wore an intent look, almost anxious, yet she never looked bright. She did very uneven work in school. She would get one question perfectly and the next one, although identical in kind and quality, would be wrong, weirdly wrong.

"There is certainly something wrong with this child," said the teacher. "I can't make out what it is. She ought to be tested."

The intelligence tests showed the same ragged quality. "She ought to have done better. The I. Q. is high but the achievements are poor. When you go into them they are queer. Better have the doctor look her over."

"Good morning, Kate," said the doctor cheerily. "Good morning," said Kate in the far away tone of the child in fear.

"Now, you tell me your name and how old you are," said the doctor bending down to get a card from the bottom drawer of the desk. He found one, placed it on the desk blotter, shook his fountain pen, made a beginning dot on the line where Kate's name was to go and then looked up inquiringly. In all this time Kate had not spoken. She was standing with her back to the doctor now, looking into the cabinet that held all the shiny things the doctor used.

"What is your full name, Kate," said the doctor, not quite so cheerily.

Kate never stirred. The doctor touched her arm. Kate turned calmly and looked at him. She was patiently waiting.

"So-o-o," thought the doctor but making no sign of the idea that had spoken to him.

Kate looked intently at the doctor's face. He looked just as intently at Kate's face. By and by the man spoke first.

"Did you hear what I said, Kate?"

Kate watched the doctor's face, a deeper intentness in her gray eyes showing an effort of some kind or other behind them.

"Just now?" I heard you speak to me just now."

"Did you hear me ask you to tell me your name?"

"No. When did you ask me? I only heard you just now."

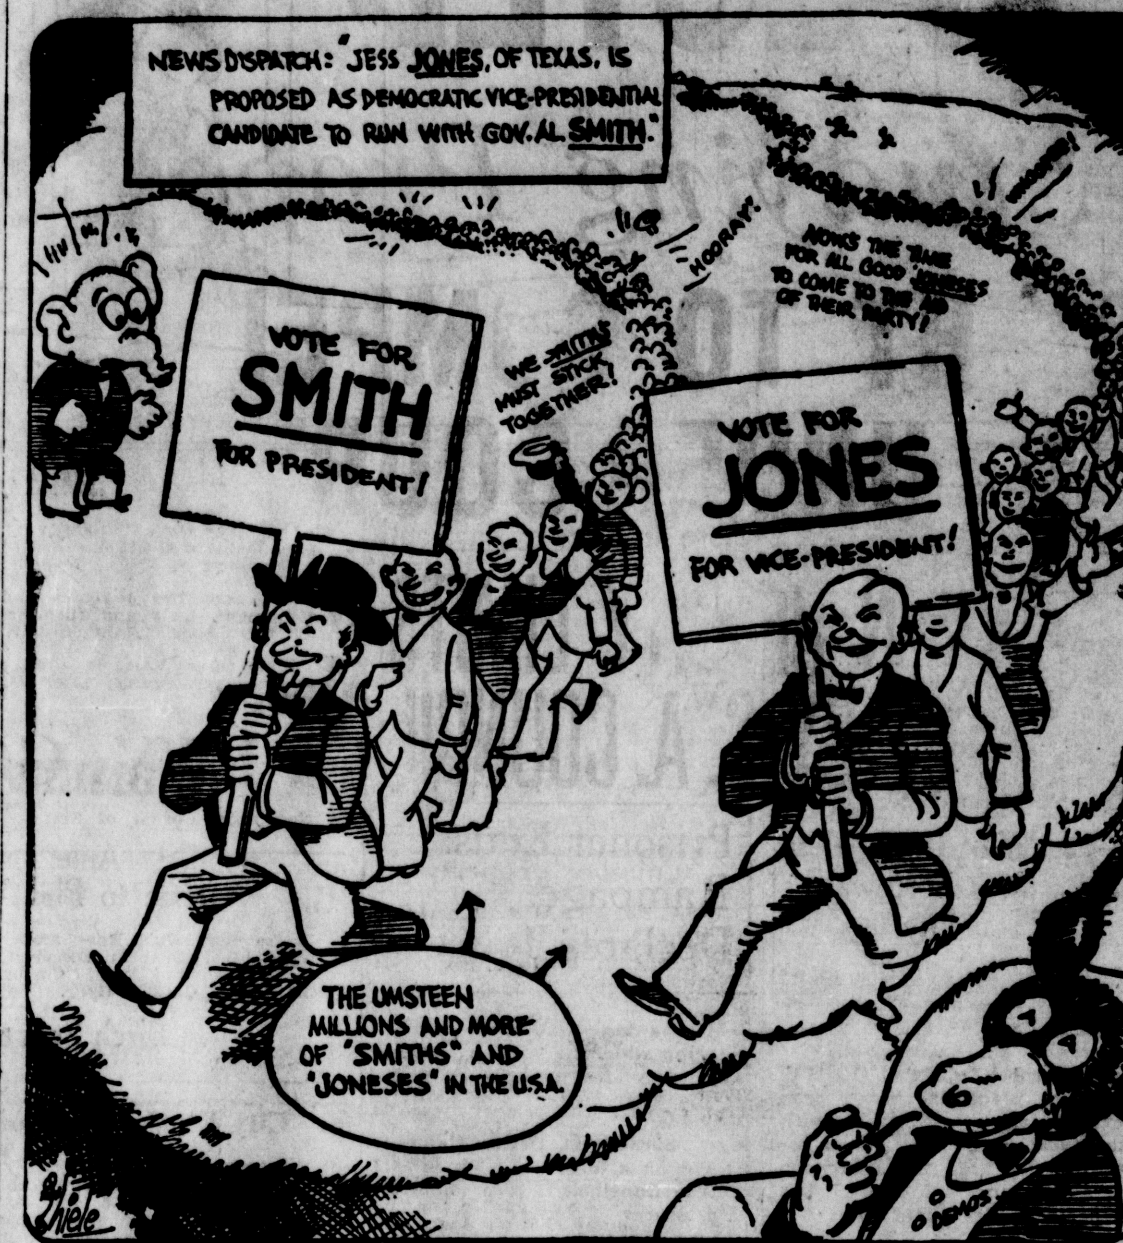

You see Kate was hard of hearing at times. There were times when the child heard perfectly well but there were other times when she was deaf, blankly deaf. She was a highly intelligent child but with her hearing constantly being turned on and off, you can imagine the conditions her mind would be in after a session at school.

You who have ears to hear remember that there are those who have not. Watch for them. Speak gently, slowly, clearly to them. Train all such children to read the lips of those who talk to them. Train them to let people know they cannot hear. Test the hearing of all children every few months.

A child may hear today and hear much less tomorrow. Because your child was pronounced physically perfect when he entered school does not say he is so a year from then, or a month from then. Watch. All slow children, all falling children, should have their hearing tested.

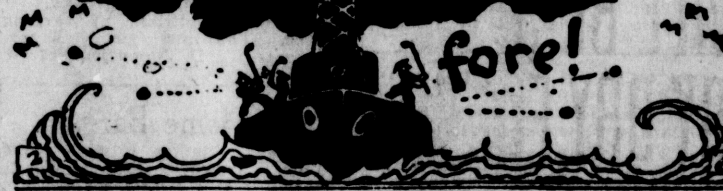

And when it is discovered that a child's hearing is impaired adjust things for him.

More Truth Than Poetry

FORE! AND AHOY!

Golf has been made compulsory at Annapolis.

When I was a lad

I was taught to putt,

Although good at golf

I was anything but

Though my shots went true

As it seemed to me,

The cup wasn't ever

Where it ought to be.

But that is the way, as no doubt you see

To learn to be an ensign in our great navy.

If my putts were bad—

As admit I must—

My shots from the tee

Were a frightful bust.

Though I worked away

With a right good will

It was just blind luck

When I hit the pill.

Yet my shots all went so wild and free

That now I am an ensign in our great navy.

Though I have no stance

And I have no grip

I can find a range

And can cut a ship—

Though I can't get a shot

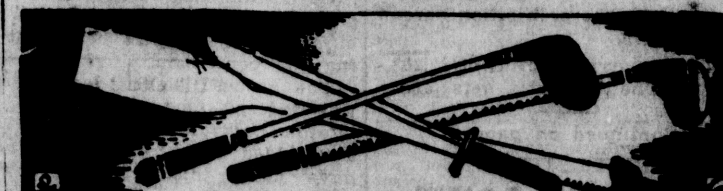

Away from the tee

At present I'm an ensign

In our great navy.

And that is quite as it ought to be

According to the rules of our great navy!

THEORETICALLY INVINCIBLE

If there was any pride in names, a Smith and Jones ticket would score a practically unanimous victory.

Senator Walsh Is Smart

In the earlier days of our country, there was no man who could win the admiration and good-will of his fellow citizens like the man who was "smart," in the frontier vernacular—the man who shrewdly kept his wits about him and never, by whatever smooth-tongued talker, could be hood-winked.

That sentiment is not quite so strong now. If it were, we believe that one of the most admired men in the country would be the well known senator from Montana, Thomas J. Walsh.

Ever since he began investigating the Teapot Dome business four years ago, Senator Walsh has displayed this quality strongly. But he never showed it so much as he did the other day in connection with his desire to question Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil of Indiana.

Colonel Stewart was in Havana, and his counsel appeared for him. When Senator Walsh remarked that he would like to have Stewart appear at once, the lawyer expressed his regrets, but said that the colonel was very busy in Havana on matters of great import—"matters which I would prefer not to divulge."

Another man than Walsh might have sighed "too bad" and bowed to fate. But not Walsh. Instead he poked up a spear of Havana newspapers and glanced through them. He read about various articles in the society columns—articles which told how the chairman of the Standard Oil of Indiana was gracing countless Havana night functions with his presence, attending dinners at the yacht and jockey clubs, going to this fiesta and that, behaving in short, exactly like a man who is thoroughly enjoying a vacation.

Senator Walsh read these articles. Then he sat and looked at the lawyer for a moment. Then he said:

"I think that without further discussion you would better inform Colonel Stewart that the Senate committee on public lands requests his prompt attendance before it. Is that understood?"

The lawyer agreed that it was. And that was that.

A very, very sharp chap, this Montana senator. What a name he would have had in the old days, when eagerness was properly admired!

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

Little Lifts

"Kind words," says the proverb, "cost nothing and are worth much. But helpful actions are worth more."

Many a man has owed, or believed he owed, his success in life to some little lift given him by another man.

Many a family, bereaved and despairing because of the loss of the father and bread winner, has been put back on the high road to happiness by the kindly interest of some neighbor in finding work for the children, or by stocking the larder so that the wolf could be kept away for a while.

This is supposed to be a hard and an unfeeling world.

Yet if you will recall your own experience you will find that you can remember many cases where people in trouble have been helped out by others as naturally and with as little fuss as a strong man would pick up and dust off another man who had slipped on a muddy street.

In many years of business life I have known of thousands of such cases, and in nearly every instance the lifting was done by some one who did it instinctively, and without a thought of conferring an obligation.

One reason that people seem hard and cruel is that they are so often intent on their own affairs that they do not think about the troubles of others.

But bring sorrow or unhappiness to their attention, and only the worst of them remain heedless.

When the great Mississippi flood swept away hundreds of homes and ruined vast tracts of farm land, there was a universal effort to help not only from the United States, but from many quarters of the world. That was a calamity which could be understood, and there was no lack of practical sympathy.

If you have ever seen a fire in a residence, no matter how small or poverty stricken, you know how the neighbors rally around, take care of the fire victims, and help save their goods and chattels from the flames.

That is another calamity which can be understood.

I think that it is really a kindly world, and that most people in it are ready to help others when the need arises.

The only trouble is that it is not always easy to understand the plight of others, and how much they need help.

A recent biography of Abraham Lincoln tells of how he could never pass by a hog mired in the mud without stopping to lift him out. The distress of a hog, or of any other animal, always appealed to him.

And when Lincoln later in life became a figure in a great crisis, the distress of a whole people appealed to him, and he did heroic work to save them.

He was a man of tremendous imagination and sympathy. And it is only the lack of these qualities that sometimes cause the average person to be selfish and to be cruel to others in distress.

Dr. Crane's Friendly Talk

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE war has been over for some ten years now and the public can do a lot of forgetting in that time. The worst sufferers from the war are not the dead and are not the people who lost some money.

The dead are beyond our reach. They have made the supreme sacrifice for their country and perhaps they are happier now than when they were here.

But it is the living wrecks of battle who want to be remembered, crippled, blinded and nerve racked, who linger on after the excitement has passed.

There are thousands of disabled ex-service men living today. Out in an Arizona hospital there are one thousand patients from every State in the Union, and I got a letter from one of these men the other day.

They do not like to be pawed over and have no relish for sob stuff, but they are human beings and appreciate attention.

Of course the government to do something for them generally does; but getting from a government is rather satisfactory position to a man.

It isn't the most fun in the world to have to live in a hospital, have some incurable disease, a long, lingering agony and can withstand it except the thinned solidarity spirit and thoughts.

It is one thing to return from war and to be honored by some town. It is quite another to return disabled and be at the mercy of your life in a statistics.

Let us honor the dead as they all praise, but let us not the living, nor fail to let the mind up of the terrible cost.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

Two fateful spirits battle for control of our lives—the spirit of courage and the spirit of caution. Courage makes us creative. Caution makes us compromise. Caution makes us receptive of new ideas.

Caution makes us resentful of new ideas. Caution makes us daring. Caution makes us diplomatic. Caution is commonly associated with youth.

Caution is commonly associated with age. When does a man cease to be young and begins to be old? Touching the question at one point, at which time in a man's life does courage wane and caution wax?

The French have a phrase—the crisis de quarante ans—that puts this turning point at the fortieth year.

I am more than journalistically interested in this, for I turned forty the other day, and by chance came upon a collection of the addresses of Sir William Osler the same day—a volume in which Dr. Osler elaborates his theory that men above forty are rarely pioneers, that the great work of the world has been done by men who had not reached the crisis of the fortieth year, and that after forty a man must exert a special effort to keep his mind elastic and receptive and courageous.

Osler thought the fifteen years from twenty-five to forty the creative and courageous years in which a man must make his contribution to the life of his time.

He took delight in quoting Harvey's comment on the long and difficult task of convincing the of the truth of his theory circulation of the blood, who way said that, after twelve demonstration that should convinced even the most r he did not think any man forty years of age had the new truth.
